

ONE of the most important features of President Coolidge's speech on American foreign policy was his announcement of what may almost come to be called the "Coolidge doctrine." That is, that we have a different relation to the nations North of Panama than we have to other nations, or than any nation ordinarily has to any other. We have, in fact, made it our business to discourage them in their favorite pastime of revolution. It was none of our business when Russia had a revolution of which, no doubt, most of us disapproved. We are making it none of our business that China is now in revolution. When Brazil threw off the Empire, we accepted it as a fact. Chile or Argentina might change their government by revolution, and we would recognize whichever government was in fact in possession. But North of the Canal, we undertake to recognize only legitimate governments, and we discourage revolution.

IN OTHER words, we declare a limited protectorate over the Caribbean basin, and all the nations bordering on it. Whether they keep the peace or are rent by revolution; whether they get along with each other, and a lot of other things, we regard as concerning ourselves, as the same things would not concern us anywhere else in the world. This is but the formulation of what has long been the practice. We have exercised actual protectorates, at times, over various island peoples in the Caribbean, and we have interfered regularly when the peace of continental Central America was threatened. It is perhaps a debatable policy, but it is also a certainly defensible one. Its only serious anger is removed by sufficient publicity. The nations of South America must not be allowed even unjustly to suspect that we have any such policy toward them. It is not a Monroe Doctrine covering all of the two American continents, but the Coolidge doctrine, covering the territory North of the Panama Canal, and nothing else. On that basis, with its limits strictly understood, it may or may not be right, but it is at least safe.

THERE may be plenty of reasons for dissent in Alameda's Los Angeles temple. Some may not approve of the pastor's methods or doctrines, or may lack personal confidence in her. But these are not the things that make real trouble. People can always compromise on essentials. Being based on reason, they are subject to reason. The irreconcilable differences come from the irrational taboos. Over them there can be no reconciliation. The pastor who wears buttons in a hook-and-eye congregation, or smokes a cigar in an anti-nicotine one, is instantly impossible. So is Alameda. The most serious charge against her is that she bobb her hair. That is of the world, worldly. It may even suggest that she is not of the neuter gender, to which all preachers and teachers, in the opinion of some official boards, ought to belong. Who can truly preach the four square gospel with hair, or dress different from somebody's prejudices?

AMEE can take care of herself. After what she has already been through, this is insignificant. The issue is her well-advised home, and she likes this sort of thing. But in a more serious way, in more serious churches this censorship in small things is precisely the reason assigned by many much-concerned observers for the falling off of the number of candidates for the ministry. It is not lack of faith. There is plenty of that left, and modern churches are not even impossible beliefs. It is not lack of devotion. It is not, they say, even lack of money. Pastors are being better paid, and there are still those willing to serve for little. It is the fact that the pastor is the only person in the community whose conduct and manner, in small and unessential things, is everybody's business. Spirited men do not care to have their whole lives subject to petty censorship, on matters of custom and arbitrary taboo, of the most ignorant and prejudiced of those they are called to teach and lead.

THE law courts of Germany, a dispatch says, are being modernized. They have introduced typewriters, document carriers, efficiency methods and the rest, some of which are still an unrealized aspiration even in modern and efficient America. But one thing old the Prussian courts will at least insist on preserving. That is the rule against lawyers on the bench. A judge, in Germany, is a judge; not an ex-lawyer. The judge has never practiced law, and the practitioner knows that he will never be a judge. This is not, of course, to say that the judge does not know law. He has, in fact, been a student of that all his career, from his graduation through his "assessorship" to his minor and then higher judgeship. He knows law enough. But he has never practiced it. He has always been on the judicial side of the bench, even when his functions, in early life, were those of a clerk or referee. He was educated and trained for a judge, and has made this his business all his life. A lawyer is something different, again. In Germany, he, too, knows law—something which does not always follow here. His business is to try cases, and to advise clients. Judging cases is a different profession. Perhaps we could not do that here but it is worth thinking about.

DON'T try to cure yourself by freak methods. Here is the case of Irene Gimbel, "chiropractic student," of Denver, who got the notion that fasting would be good for the liver complaint which she thought she had. As a "student," Miss Gimbel naturally did not know whatever it is that a chiropractic is

INUNDATION OF 27 TOWNS FEARED

Flyer Slain As Smuggling Suspect

AVIATOR IS KILLED BY U. S. AGENTS

Plane Fired Upon by Officers on Guard for Craft Carrying Chinese Cargo

SHOT THROUGH HEAD

Fleet of Machines Seized By Immigration Inspectors, But Plot Is Denied

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, April 30.—An attack by U. S. immigration inspectors on a fleet of airplanes, alleged to have been used in transporting Chinese across the Mexican border, resulted in the killing of E. A. Daugherty, 30, student aviator of Somers, Cal., here today.

The planes and their occupants were seized as they landed at the Eagle airport at Gardena, a suburb, and Daugherty was shot and instantly killed when inspectors, believing he was making an attempt to take off again, opened fire. The aviator was caught in a fusillade of bullets and shot through his brain as his bullet-riddled plane madly careened down the flying field and taxied to a stop. All available members of the sheriff's force were ordered out in a country-wide search for the human cargo, which officers believe was landed in the barren and desert country near Gardena. "My men were acting thoroughly within their rights and the killing was done in the course of their official duty," Director Walter Carr, chief of the Southern California Immigration district, said. "Deny knowledge of smuggling. The flyers, however, denied any knowledge of a smuggling plot. "I was just giving my buddy his early morning lesson in flying," B. R. Chaney, manager of the airport, told deputy sheriffs. "All of a sudden, just as we were about to make a landing, I saw an officer raise his rifle to his shoulder and open fire. One of the bullets hit the gas tank and a second later another bullet pierced Daugherty's brain," he declared. "We were old friends and pals," Chaney said. "About a year ago Daugherty came to me and told me he wanted to learn to fly. Since then he has been giving him regular instructions and this morning we went up about 6 o'clock. Daugherty said he wanted to practice landing and he made several good landings when the officers, apparently hidden in the bushes, opened fire."

The federal officers, J. G. Ellis, A. R. Dick, J. A. Nielson and Howard Day, said they had been watching the field for several weeks. Early today they hid in the field and when the planes landed, they awaited their landing. The plane containing Daugherty and Chaney, circled around the field, landed and then turned. The officers, believing that the occupants of the plane were attempting to escape, opened fire. Chaney miraculously escaped injury. Two other planes seized. The other planes, containing Jack O'Brien and E. Longbrake, were seized and the two men taken into custody by the inspectors. Both denied any knowledge of the smuggling charges. Federal authorities, however, expressed the belief that the plane had landed a number of Chinese in a barren field near the airport and details of police were sent to search the nearby hills and fields. According to the inspectors they

SHIP HELPLESS ON GRAYS HARBOR BAR

PORTLAND, Ore., April 30.—The steamer schooner Avalon struck on the Grays harbor bar last night and this morning was leaking and in a water-logged condition, according to radio advices received here. The Avalon, which was taking a cargo of lumber from Grays harbor to San Francisco, carries no radio. She was sighted by the coastal steamer Suholo this morning and the distress message sent out was received by the marine station of the Federal Telegraph company, in Portland. According to the Suholo's message, a Coast Guard cutter has gone to the rescue of the Avalon.

Battleship Aground In N. Y. Harbor

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, April 30.—The battleship Colorado went aground on Diamond reef, between the Battery and Governor's Island, in New York harbor today. Ten tugs answered the call for help and stood by while engineers, after a preliminary inspection, said they believed the vessel could be floated this evening at high tide. "There may be serious difficulty, however, at about 2 p. m., when low tide will leave but 27 feet of water covering the reef. The Colorado left its North river anchorage to go to the Brooklyn navy yard during the morning. Watchers ashore saw that it was working far to the south side of the channel and noticed the propellers churning up mud. The Colorado had just passed the battleship Maryland, dividing the channel with her.

LEGISLATURE IS GIVEN PRAISE BY GOVERNOR

'Most Efficient I Have Ever Known,' Is C. C. Young's Comment

(By United Press)
SACRAMENTO, April 30.—Only a few legislators and attaches who compose the "clean up crew" remained in the state capitol today, following adjournment of the 47th session of the state legislature yesterday afternoon. Senators and assemblymen were leaving in throngs, by automobile and on the early morning trains today, while carpenters and capitol workers were busy with hammers and saws, packing up the legislators' law books in big wooden boxes, to be shipped to their homes. "The most efficient and fast working legislature I ever have known," was Governor Young's comment. The governor, whose experience with state legislators has extended over almost a score of years, probably is better able to pass upon the efficiency of the present session than anyone else at the capitol.

Breed Bills Important
"The Breed gasoline tax and highway bills probably were the most important of the session," the governor continued, "for they assure the completion of California's highways. The success of the reorganization measures remains yet to be determined. I honestly believe they will make for economy and greater efficiency in state government. "The taxation problem was an issue forced upon the legislature, but I believe it was met squarely. Revision of criminal law and procedure will make California very unpopulated with the criminal element, and the water conservation measures will go a long way toward providing relief to the farmers of the state."

The closing hours of the legislature were devoted to settlement of a squabble between the two houses over the Crittenden resolution, creating a state water commission to continue investigation of the water needs of California the next two years.

Before the bill was passed by the senate it was amended to make the commission consist of nine members, including three senators, three assemblymen and three persons selected by Governor Young. The original bill provided for a commission of eight, including four members from each house. The assembly refused to concur in the senate's changes. The senate refused to recede from its position. The measure went into free conference, with the result that it was recommended to each house in its original form, was adopted and sent to the governor.

SECRETARY WORK'S RIVER COMMISSION BEGINS TASK

YUMA, Ariz., April 30.—Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work's special commission settled down to the task of investigating conditions in connection with the Colorado river problem here today. The commission will visit water projects in this vicinity today and leave tonight for Phoenix.

At a meeting with Secretary Work yesterday, the commissioners, including James G. Serughian, former governor of Nevada; Prof. W. F. Durand, of Stanford university; Gov. Frank C. Emerson, of Wyoming; and Senator Charles M. Watson, of Colorado, reviewed instructions and a program of operation. In his instructions to the commission, Secretary Work informed the members that they were acting as special advisors and that their report was to be made as individuals. "It is requested that you severally inquire specifically into the engineering, legal and economic phases of the development of the Colorado river, visiting the levees and delta country of the lower Colorado and Boulder, Glenn canyon and Topock dam sites and any other points of interest involved," Secretary Work said.

Among the major questions to be considered as outlined by Secretary Work were: "Whether the federal government has power to allocate the unappropriated waters of the Colorado river in the basin states, thus rendering a compact between the states unnecessary. "What the international relation to the canal, now supplying Imperial valley with water through Mexico, would be, and what rights Mexico would have if this Mexican canal concession be continued in force after the storage dam is built.

"Where the most feasible site for the dam may be. This to include study relative to the merits of Boulder and Black canyon sites. "Your opinion is desired as to the engineering feasibility of the all-American canal. "Just what benefits lower states will receive from storage of water and control of silt by the proposed dam. "Whether it is necessary to the solvency of the project that all revenues from power and other sources be applied to repayment to the government of construction cost of the project in 50 years."

To Report on Findings
He told the commission it was his desire to submit to the next congress a report based on the findings of the commissioners.

The party is scheduled to leave Phoenix for Glenn canyon Monday, where the largest of the proposed dam sites is located. The Boulder canyon site will next be visited as well as the Bullhead and Topock sites, below Boulder, where the party is expected to arrive about Friday. After making a study of topographical features of the various sites, the commission will visit Blythe, Calif., where the intake of the Los Angeles city water supply will be inspected. The commission probably will end the tour at Denver, where they will meet to confer over engineering data at the reclamation bureau offices.

Mississippi Flood Relief

Residents of Southern Orange county will contribute more than double its quota for flood relief in the Mississippi valley.

At 11 o'clock this morning the total had reached $2138.45 and indications were that it would run close to $2500.

The quota assigned to the Santa Ana chapter of the Red Cross was $1100. This quota was reached the second day and Chairman T. E. Stephenson then suggested that the quota be doubled. That goal will have been reached before tonight.

4 Aviators Drowned In Plane Crash

(By United Press)
NORFOLK, Va., April 30.—The choppy waters of Chesapeake bay were scanned today for additional bodies of four navy flyers, killed when their monster seaplane, H-16, was struck by lightning late yesterday and toppled 1200 feet to destruction off Mathews, 40 miles north of here. The aircraft tender Teal, from the Hampton Roads naval air base, searched all night in vain, but C. Biggs, Mathews county fisherman, reported finding one unidentified body and holding it at his home for the authorities. The Teal expected to raise the H-16 today in the hope that the other bodies will be found in the plane.

The dead: Lt. Victor Francis Marinelli, 30, of Washington, D. C., and Pensacola, Fla. Lt. George Watson Lehman, the pilot, of Warsaw, Ind. Chief Machinist Mate Loren Edward Poiner. Aviation Machinist's Mate George M. Michaels. All the victims were married. Their wives were at Hampton Roads, awaiting their return from Philadelphia, where they had gone to fetch the plane after an overhauling.

McCormick and Morris were being held here today, awaiting further identification in connection with the $38,000 jewelry robbery at the home of Mrs. J. M. Cummings and the holdup of A. J. Jedd, San Francisco diamond merchant, in which uncut diamonds, valued at $50,000, were obtained. Police announced that part of the loot secured when the Cummings home was robbed during a society tea, April 19, had been recovered. No trace of the diamonds taken from Jedd was found. Jedd identified Morris as the man who beat him unconscious and robbed him of two wallets in a downtown office building several days ago.

WILL RETRY UNION WAR MURDER CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Plans were being made today for a retrial of the so-called carpenter's murder case, following the discharge of a jury which had been deadlocked 48 hours. The jury stood 3 to 4 for conviction of Gus Madsen and George Pesce, who were tried for the murder of C. W. Campbell, non-union carpenter, who was beaten to death in October, it was learned. The jurors took more than 20 ballots during the two days and nights they were locked up. The four who voted for acquittal were said to have admitted that they took exception to the alleged confessions of the two men because they believed the confessions were obtained through third degree methods.

WILL AID HOLLYWOOD CLUB IN STAGING WORLD'S GREATEST AIR CARNIVAL

The project of an international aviation peace jubilee in Santa Ana July 2 to 9 became a definite proposition today, when directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce voted indorsement and obligated the organization to full co-operation with the Hollywood Aero club in staging what is declared will be one of the greatest events in the history of aviation. Following approval of the plans, an executive committee was named to represent the chamber in all matters pertaining to the meet. The committee is composed of Clyde Downing, president; George Raymond, secretary; F. J. Forgy, attorney for the chamber; B. E. Northland, president of the Santa Ana Air club; C. E. Rutledge, district manager of the Southern Counties Gas company, and C. H. Chapman, retiring city councilman and head of the Chapman Lumber company. Roger J. Adams, president, and Harry Fieldhouse, secretary, of the Hollywood club, were present at the special meeting of the board, held for consideration of the big project. Officials of the Hollywood club further emphasized the possibilities of the jubilee in bringing to Santa Ana men prominent throughout the world in development of aviation. Ample Ground Available. Definite assurance was given that ample ground on the Irvine ranch would be available for the assemblage of hundreds of aircraft expected to fly to this vicinity for participation in the international event. Negotiations for a lease from the Irvine company for use of acreage at the foot of South Main street, still remain for completion. The field will adjoin the Martin airport, which will be used as part of the large tract to be devoted to the meet. The Hollywood club officials at once will start a publicity campaign throughout the nation and in foreign lands that will bring Santa Ana prominence. Invitations will be sent to aviation departments of all nations to send representatives here and plans already are under way for the presentation of prizes, which will come from many parts of the world and from hundreds of air

Henchman of Birger Admits Murder

BENTON, Ill., April 30.—The murder of Mayor Joe Adams, West City, for which Charlie Birger, notorious Southern Illinois gangster, is under indictment in Franklin county jail, was confessed in court here today by Harry A. Thomason, 19, a Birger henchman. Judge Charles H. Miller, who heard the confession, immediately sentenced Thomason to life imprisonment in the penitentiary at Joliet. He was serving a term of from 10 years to life for robbery at Pontiac reformatory when brought into court in connection with the case.

PROGRAM OF FLOOD RELIEF FACES CRISIS

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 30.—The entire program of flood relief work in this refugee center faced a crisis today, following a break under the sea wall which was bringing a gradual inundation of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad tracks and the station on the channel front. The break will permit the flood to cover a large area between the steamboat landings and the bluff on which the main section of Vicksburg is located, making the problem of landing refugees a difficult one. In a last desperate effort to save the wholesale business district of Vicksburg from destruction, a diver was attempting to check the flow of water through the hole under the sea wall with mattresses. The Illinois Central railroad was bringing in thousands of sandbags to throw up a temporary levee, which may save the station and landing places from complete inundation. The water began churning through under the sea wall at 4:30 a. m. today and river engineers said it would be impossible to stem the rise within the wall to the level of the Mississippi river.

MRS. CHAPLIN WINS FIGHT FOR ALIMONY

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—The most sensational divorce drama in the history of California courts was in prospect here today, following the successful alimony raid on the millions of Charlie Chaplin by his estranged wife, Lita Grey Chaplin. Temporary alimony of $1500 a month, retroactive to January 10, was granted late yesterday to Mrs. Chaplin. In addition to the alimony, the court ordered that Mrs. Chaplin be reimbursed in the sum of $1629.12, expenses incurred in filing her suit and ordered that Chaplin pay $320 a month for payments on his wife's car.

NEW BREAK IS REPORTED IN ARKANSAS

Flood Will Drive Out 60,000 Persons in 7 Counties, Official Declares

125 FEET GIVE WAY

(By United Press)
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 30.—Break of 125 feet in the river levee at South Bend, Ark., today was expected to inundate 27 small towns in seven counties. The break was reported by Maj. Henry Fredman, of the Arkansas National Guard who declared the new flood would drive out 60,000 persons. Towns in the path of the break include Dumas, McGehee and Dermott.

NEW ORLEANS BELIEVED SAFE SINCE BLASTS

NEW ORLEANS, April 30.—With water pouring through the Mississippi river levee, broken by dynamite charges 14 miles south of here, and with the river gauge holding at 20.8 feet, New Orleans breathed easier today. The river, rushing through the break near Poydras, can be heard for two miles and his covered St. Bernard parish with from eight to 10 feet of water for a distance of nine miles and rapidly is rising. Engineers believe the break will save New Orleans from its greatest flood threat in history, but it was made only after sacrificing the homes of 3000 people and covering rich farm and trapping lands with water which had been straining the levees to the northward. Military authorities ordered the drawbridge opened at Violet, 10 miles south of here, shutting off all traffic into the danger area.

Many Trying to Escape
Many persons who refused to leave when warned by guardsmen are making frantic efforts to escape. Cattle and livestock left behind can be seen swimming for places of safety and there will be very few left within a short time. The highway to New Orleans as far as Poydras is covered with 19 feet of water. Smaller levees have been washed entirely away and the more substantial structures near the scene of the break have only their roofs visible above the rushing waters. The store building established as headquarters for police and military authorities has been abandoned. In this store the water is six feet deep. The plant of the Carnarvon Packing company was under water, but engineers believe this marks the flood limit to the north as most of the water is expected to carry to the southward.

MORE DANGEROUS LEVEE BREAKS ARE THREATENED
MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 30.—Dangerous levee breaks threaten at any moment at a number of points in southern Mississippi and Arkansas and on the west bank of the Mississippi river in Louisiana, according to information reaching Red Cross headquarters here early today. Advances to Col. George Spalding, directing the Red Cross relief fleet, said that the levee at Glasscock, La., was seriously weakened and likely to give way at any time. A break in the dike at Glasscock would let the flood pour out over a large section of back land in Louisiana, but would bring some relief to the levees on the east bank of the river in lower Mississippi and Louisiana. The first to save the levee be

COLLEGE FOLK HOLD PICNIC AT COUNTY PARK

Students of the Orange County Business college yesterday afternoon threw study cares to the winds and held themselves to Orange County park for an afternoon and evening of freedom and jollity.

Games played in the afternoon had whetted the appetites of the students when they sat down to the table for dinner early in the evening. The basket dinner proved one of the enjoyable features of the outing.

"Assault" on the delicious viands prepared was preceded by the presentation by Mrs. Carpenter, on behalf of the students, of a bouquet to Mrs. Bessie Sebring, a teacher in the college for the past 10 years, who is leaving soon on an extended vacation. It was announced by A. N. Symmes, president of the college, that Mrs. Nina Rutherford, of Los Angeles, would succeed Mrs. Sebring.

Committees appointed by Symmes to arrange some of the details of the outing were as follows:

Elwood Corder, Arthur Kraeger, Harry Mier, Clarence Oatland, transportation; Miss Anna Tienari, Vern Harrison, Miss Mary Wallin, Miss Anna Klauermeyer, Lester Smeltzer, amusements; Mrs. Carpenter, Miss Clara Colligan, Miss Roselle Sohra, Verne Grazer, Victor Borchard, refreshments.

PARTNER SUES FOR FIRM'S ACCOUNTING

J. W. Coleman, who operates Jack's garage, at Fullerton, was served with a temporary injunction and placed under $1000 bond by Superior Judge H. G. Ames, late yesterday, pending the hearing of a complaint filed by J. R. Heck, partner of Coleman, who has sued Coleman for an accounting.

Heck claims that he paid Coleman $2000 for a half-interest in the garage in January, 1926, on the representation that the business was clear of encumbrances. This representation was false, he said. He further charged that Coleman drew more funds from the partnership for his personal use than he was entitled to, and that he neglected business.

Last August, Heck abandoned the business to Coleman, he claims on the promise that an audit and an accounting would be made. This has not been done, he asserts.

The temporary injunction issued by the court yesterday restrains Coleman from disposing of any assets of the business until the case is heard.

GIVE RADIO BILL FOR FLOOD FUND

For the purpose of calling the attention of Santa Ana and Orange county folk to the need of financial assistance for the victims of the Mississippi river floods, a special radio program will be given tonight over station KWTC, Santa Ana, between 10:30 p.m. and 1:30 a.m. The program is as follows:

Count Nick Kalliga, Russian pianist; the famous J. C. Quartet in late song hits; Jeff Wilde, the silver voiced tenor of KWTC; Princess Cynthia Kirven in songs; The KWTC trio, Adeline Cochems, pianist; Harold Matthews, oboe; Lyle Roberts, clarinet; Dorothy Bell, recently of Honolulu, the very latest in Hawaiian guitar music; Francis Chandler, Fullerton, "the girl of the golden voice," in latest song hits; Corinne Pennington, the original "Ukulele Lady"; Rex Barker, saxophone; Milt Foster, violin; Ray Simpson, the whistling baritone with his "uke."

ANAHEIM MAN GETS RIGHT TO INTERVENE IN SUIT OVER HIGHWAY PAYMENT

Charles Harbeson, Anaheim taxpayer, late yesterday gained the right in superior court to intervene in the test suit between W. E. Chilson, Santa Ana taxpayer, and W. C. Jerome, county auditor, filed to determine whether $10,000 of county gas tax funds should be appropriated for the South Main street paving project in Santa Ana upon a three to two vote of the county supervisors.

The injunction suit was set for trial May 1 in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court yesterday, after a stipulation had been filed by the various parties to the action, permitting Harbeson to file his complaint in intervention and allowing Jerome 10 days in which to answer it.

Thus the stage was set for threshing out the legal question of whether a simple majority vote of the county board was sufficient to authorize the appropriation, or whether, as opponents of the appropriation contend, a four-fifths vote of the board is necessary. The court is expected to decide whether the section of the general laws, which calls for a four-fifths vote on the transfer of any county funds to a city, or a section of the motor vehicle, relating to transfer of tax moneys raised under the motor vehicle act, which makes no reference to a four-fifths vote, shall govern the situation in question.

Jerome holds the view that a simple majority of 3 to 2 is sufficient. Another group, headed by Chairman William Schumacher of the county board, takes the opposite view.

Chilson, the Santa Ana taxpayer, ostensibly took the "four-fifths" view, with his injunction petition, in order to get a court decision. In reality, as has been his topic, the appropriation is made, he is said to favor the appropriation.

Harbeson, an actual opponent of the appropriation, and understood to represent the Schumacher group in the controversy, decided not to allow two friends of the appropriation to conduct a friendly lawsuit where both sides desired the same outcome. He filed his complaint in intervention, removing the "friendly" aspect of the litigation.

COOLIDGE CONSIDERS VISIT TO FLOOD DISTRICT

WASHINGTON, April 30.—President Coolidge today took under consideration an invitation of Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, acting for Mississippi valley governors, for the president to visit flood regions.

Harrison said the president indicated a desire to await return of Secretary of Commerce Hoover from his flood inspection trip before making any decision on the invitation, however.

After his call, Harrison said there is no immediate need for an extra session of congress, adding, however, farmers and citizens of the flood zone will directly need credit facilities soon for reconstruction. He advocated an extra session in event financiers and government officials cannot devise means of meeting this need. He proposed a comprehensive investigation for future flood control and suggested levees, spillways and reservoirs ought to be built on the upper Mississippi to prevent repetition of the present calamity.

DETROIT, Mich., April 30.—De termination of a new date for retrial of the Aaron Sapiro-Henry Ford $1,000,000 libel suit was postponed until July 1, when attorneys for the two sides met with Judge Fred M. SEND WEAVER TO NORWALK ON DRINK CHARGE

Commitment yesterday of Dennis Weaver, of Garden Grove, to Norwalk hospital as an inebriate, terminated the criminal prosecution of Weaver that followed a turlid incident near Los Alamitos, where he gave battle to an officer attempting to arrest him.

Three separate criminal charges were dropped when Judge Homer G. Ames sent the Garden Grove man to Norwalk. Any of them meant a possible sentence to San Quentin.

In one, he was accused of breaking the parole he had been granted in 1922, after pleading guilty to a grand larceny charge. The two others grew out of the Los Alamitos affair, in which former Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Smith, now of Long Beach, tried to arrest Weaver on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and succeeded only after subduing the belligerent Weaver with his club.

The arrest of Weaver came after a wild chase from Garden Grove to the point near Los Alamitos

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Danger of Sudden Temptations and degrading thoughts and purposes in his private life when he had commended pure and holy things in his public service.

A Sincere Man
But what was the truth concerning this man? Those who had known him most intimately in the close contact of student life declared that in all their associations with him they had found him peculiarly free from anything that suggested lawlessness in speech or action. They thought of him as one of the most pure-minded and sincere of men. There can be little doubt that he was in his highest and best aspirations exactly what these fellow students thought him.

It is doubtful whether, during the years of his able ministry, he had ever had brought home to him the temptations that ultimately assailed him. It is doubtful whether he thought of himself as capable of the degradation that had overwhelmed others.

Paul understood these things perfectly well. Surely he might have thought himself as being beyond temptation, he had so disciplined himself in ways of honor and rectitude and service; but he had left on record the fact that even in the highest and holiest moments of his life he buffeted and disciplined himself lest, as he said, having preached the Gospel of others he himself should be a castaway.

Peter lacked something of that philosophic spirit and practical common-sense of Paul. He was impulsive and self-confident. He was so sure of himself that it constituted in him a sort of pride, a sense almost of separation from his fellowmen. He did not think of himself as quite of the same flesh and blood as others.

Few of us are like Paul and most of us are like Peter. We may not have Peter's self-confidence, but the great majority of us have an undue sense of safety. Most of us imagine that we are free from certain forms of temptation that assail others. It is never wise to have any such sense of false security.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 1. The Danger of Sudden Temptations. Mark 14:53, 54, 66-71; Luke 22:61, 62.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist
Temptations would lose much of their danger if they could be deprived of their sudden and unexpected aspect.

There are great driving temptations that are in the substratum of life, that beset the soul with all the pressure of a fundamental urge. But for these the soul, especially of the man whose heart is inclined toward truth and righteousness, finds something of its preparation in discipline and in the elemental impulses of good.

It is the temptations that come upon one unawares that are apt to be overwhelming, sweeping one away before he has had time to realize their fury or even to understand the full import of what he is doing in yielding to them.

Such temptations are of two sorts. There are those that are simply unanticipated. A man may know in a general way that he is subject to them, at least that he is not foreign to something that he has discovered in his own nature. Against such temptations a man can do much to prepare himself by forethought. But there are other temptations that are as unforeseen in their nature as they are in their appearance.

They strike a man in some place of weakness or desire of which he has never before been conscious. He may have seen such temptations assail the life of his fellow men, but he may have lulled himself into a certain security because he has never imagined that he would be subject to these particular allurements. It is temptations of this sort that are calculated to destroy, almost in a moment, the life work and character that an individual may suppose that he had established upon a basis of sincerity and truth.

Not long ago a minister was convicted of a most foul and degrading sin. The discovery of his wrongdoing forced him to flee from his home and work and from the community and fellowship of those who had loved and respected him. It was about as abject and terrible a fall as could very well have been conceived, for the man had occupied great pulpits and had been highly honored.

The comment of the general public, not always sufficiently sympathetic toward such a man's tragedy, might very well have been that this man was a wolf in sheep's clothing, that all through the years he had been a hypocrite with foul

Mrs. Ralph Roper Is Guest of Honor at Bridge Shower

Quantities of lovely flowers added to the attractive setting of the W. O. Hill home at 1403 South Main street when Mrs. Earl Granger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hill, entertained there in honor of Mrs. Ralph Roper, formerly Miss Isabel Wylie, whose marriage was a recent event.

Bridge occupied the afternoon. When scores were tallied it was found that Mrs. Fred Hobbs had scored high while Mrs. Charles Carothers, Mrs. Newt Richards, Miss Margaret Wylie and Miss Blanche Hill held high scores at the individual tables. Each received an attractive gift.

During the hour when refreshments were served dainty gifts of linen were presented the surprised honoree.

Guests included Mrs. Ray Crenshaw, Mrs. Ralph Cole, Mrs. Hugh Haley, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. Riley Huber, Mrs. Thomas Kent, Mrs. Glenn Welch, Mrs. Russell Johnson, Mrs. Charles Carothers, Mrs. Fred Hobbs, Mrs. Edward Ward, Mrs. W. Richards, Mrs. Rollo Hayes Jr., Mrs. Minor Cox, Mrs. Harold Knight, Mrs. Robert Jeffrey, Mrs. Paul Wallace, Mrs. Kenneth Baird, Miss Katie Buxton, Miss Rebecca Joplin, Miss Blanche Hill and Miss Margaret Wylie.

Spring House Party Enjoyed by Group At Our Village

Several years ago, the Philanthropic class of Spurgeon Memorial Sunday school, established the custom of a spring outing in Laguna Beach, as guests in Crescent Bay Lodge, whose kindly proprietor is H. W. Pierce. In accordance with that custom, the class members spent last week-end at the pleasant spot, and were all agreed that it was one of their most successful outings.

Each member drew slips on which were written the various duties, and Miss Mabel Ozmert, Miss Genevieve Wilbur and Miss Cora Lee Ritter were thus designated to take care of menus and kitchen duties.

During the day, a succession of hikes and swims was enjoyed. In the evening, all gathered around the great fireplace and corn-poppers and marshmallow sticks were called into play. Sunday morning, the usual service was conducted with Mrs. Jones substituting as teacher for Mrs. Ruth G. Wallis, who was unable to be present.

On Saturday the group was joined for the day, by Mrs. Grider Barnett and children, Mary Sue and Judith Ann, and on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Greenleaf were dinner guests, returning with the entire party that evening.

Those down for the house-party were the Misses Rebecca Oglesby, Cora Lee Ritter, Eunice Jones, Hazel Greenleaf, Verna Jones, Mabel Ozmert, Martha Belle Pugh, May Salter, Opal S. Dodd, Mrs. Genevieve Greenleaf Wilbur, Mrs. A. A. Jones, (assistant teacher) Mrs. J. Wilson Glanzner and Mrs. Thomas J. Hunter and children David and Mary Wileigh.

Household Economics

Yesterday's meeting of Ebells' third household economics section with Mrs. W. W. Crozier of East Newport, was a particularly pleasant one, and all the members enjoyed the experience of motoring to the beach and being entertained in such a thoroughly charming and hospitable home.

Luncheon was a gay affair of varied dishes, as each of the fifteen members present, contributed her favorite culinary achievement to the menu. The table was made lovely with flowers culled from Mrs. Crozier's famous "Friendship garden," and during the afternoon the guests took great pleasure in strolling through that same garden, and admiring the thirty or forty varieties of flowers growing there—all contributed by friends.

The formal program was marked by an interesting paper in which the hostess told ways of preparing fish roe and rice. A report was given of the section's success in conducting the "country store" at the recent Ebells' "Flower Show and Spring Market," and it was learned that the store had netted $180. This was made possible by those who contributed so generously to the supply of articles for sale, and the section takes this opportunity to express warm appreciation to all who contributed.

Farewell Party Given Before Departure On Journey

The eastern trip of Mr. and Mrs. Fredric Godfrey, will be sweetened by memories of the pleasant courtesies shown them by Santa Ana friends, among them being the delightful party given Thursday night by Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Duncan, 825 Oak street, son-in-law and daughter of the honor guests.

It was a May party in everything but the date, for May's loveliest flowers were used by the hostess in making her home a pleasant spot for her friends. All varieties and colors were represented, and the effect was that of a fragrant floral bower. An evening of games was enjoyed, and at a late hour when refreshments were served, flowers again took prominent place, for an assortment of some ten or a dozen blossoms with two of each variety, was passed both to men and women, similar flowers indicating partners for sharing the dainty trays each with their corsage for one and boutonniere for the other. Ice cream molded in flower form, was served with rich cake.

Asked to join the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, and their complimented guests, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey, were Messrs. and Mesdames W. H. McPeak, O. Johnston, M. Tutwell, A. J. McFadden, J. B. Steward, M. Breckenridge, A. N. Cox, R. C. Smith, C. T. Elsie, W. W. Hoy and J. A. Smiley.

The Godfreys have rented their home at 1250 South Ross street, and plan a year's absence which they will spend in New York and Florida. They will leave Santa Ana on May 16.

Downey Bridge Club Meets at Inn

St. Ann's Inn was the rendezvous for a group of women from Downey, members of a friendly club there, who motored to this city Thursday to enjoy luncheon and a session of bridge at the Inn.

Blue delphiniums and pink sweet peas formed an attractive arrangement of flowers for the tables, and each basket was tied with pink and blue tulle. Following luncheon the group returned to the lobby and sought places around small tables for an afternoon of bridge.

Mrs. Mary Bartels and Mrs. A. P. McBoyle were hostesses, and their guests included Mrs. Agnes Benbrook, Mrs. Nels Jacobson, Mrs. Mary Lee Rives, Mrs. Georgia Dally, Mrs. Hogan Wilford, Mrs. M. H. Wiebers, Mrs. E. C. Powell, Mrs. T. W. Roberts, Mrs. A. E. Beman and Mrs. R. B. Hegandt.

New Officers Installed At Party Held by Rankin Society

Members of the Rankin Co-operative society installed their new officers Thursday night at a delightful meeting held in the Modern Woodman hall. The officers included Mrs. Marie Fowler, president; Mrs. Mary Tralle, vice president; Miss Mary Wall, secretary; Miss Lillian Arnold, treasurer; Mrs. Ella Faupel, Miss Pearl Kimball, Miss Laurence Sauer, Mrs. Beatrice Howard, Miss Ada Larson, Mrs. Lore Brown, Miss Mabel Cole, Mrs. Edna Timm, Mrs. Pearl Smalley, Mrs. Eva McConnell and Mrs. I. L. Brisenide, counselors.

Adding to the gaiety of the occasion were the old fashioned dresses worn by the new officers and by the installing officers, Miss Ethel Coffman and Miss Mabel Cole.

The installation services were preceded by a dinner at which Bruce Switzer was toastmaster. As usual Mr. Switzer created a great deal of merriment in his several pointed talks.

A short program was enjoyed by the guests. It included numbers by Miss Corinne Pennington, Miss Neva Mizar, Miss Billie Brucke, Miss Helen Lutz, Miss Dorothy Lutz, Miss Adele Lutz, E. Melhorn, and the Rankin chorus.

Interesting talks were given by Mrs. Lore Brown on "The Opportunities and Duties of Officers and Counselors in Bringing Out the Best Talents for the Society" and by Miss Ethel Coffman on "Our Aims for 1927."

The party was given under the direction of last year's officers, Mrs. Rosa Meyers, Miss Mabel Cole, Miss Margaret Bowen and Miss Lillian Arnold.

Pupil Recital

Many friends assembled at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Hays sr., 2103 North Broadway, Thursday evening, to hear the recital in which Miss Nellie Mai Chapman was presented as a soloist, by her teacher, Theophilus Fitz, of Los Angeles.

The home was very lovely with a wealth of flowers sent by friends of the young vocalist. Despite an attack of tonsillitis from which Miss Chapman was recovering, she did full justice to the program of songs selected, and was congratulated by her friends on the remarkable progress shown in her brief course of study.

She sang four groups, featuring such lovely numbers as Sander's "Break of Day," "The Little Elf-Man," "The Chrysanthemum," "Rain," and "Love Has Wings," and in the final group (with violin obligato by W. W. D. Boss) she sang "A Day Dream" by Strelezki and "Adoration" by Palma.

Just before her final numbers, her teacher, Mr. Fitz, made a short talk in which he prophesied future success for his pupil and outlined her progress in two-and-a-half months' study. Until February, she had not considered a career in voice but was studying piano under Earl Fraser, and dramatic expression under Gladys Simpson Shaffer. Mr. Fitz detected the richness in her voice, and prevailed upon her to give a few months to vocal study. This is her first recital.

Friends from Los Angeles, Riverside and Hollywood, joined those from Santa Ana in the enjoyment of the evening. The recital also featured Mr. Boss as violinist and Mrs. Robert T. Lee as accompanist. Mr. Boss did excellent work in "Meditation" from Massenet's "Thais" and as an encore number, played Percy Grainger's "From a Canabrake." Mrs. Lee's accompaniments were sympathetic and satisfying.

Pretty Compliment Is Paid Young Matron At Card Party

A bevy of young matrons, accepting the friendly invitation of two sister hostesses, Mrs. Minor Cox, (Alice Mater) and Mrs. Robert Jeffrey, (Helen Mater) assembled in the lovely new home at 2009 Greenleaf street of Mr. and Mrs. Cox, to compliment one of their number, Mrs. Rolla Hays Jr., formerly Miss Allene Shipp.

As a delicate compliment to the young honoree, the hostesses had decked the home with roses in the favorite "baby" colors, pink and blue, as a background for the beautifully gowned guests. Bridge tables were placed, and the evening given over to that favored diversion.

The contest resulted in victory for Mrs. C. E. Shipp, with second place accorded Miss Bonnie Dunham, and low to Mrs. Burton Wright. Each was presented with an attractive gift wrapped and tied in pink and blue.

Bridge tables were speedily arranged for serving an inviting two-course supper menu, each to be centered with pink sweet peas.

One table was reserved for another purpose, and heaped with fascinating packages, was presented to Mrs. Hays. She is the happy experience of examining scores of dainty baby things, gifts from her assembled friends.

Enjoying the pleasant surroundings of the new home, and the hospitality of the two young matrons, were the honoree, Mrs. Hays; Mrs. Harold Knight, Mrs. Carl Granger, Mrs. Billy Remsburg, Mrs. Riley Huber, Mrs. Edward Ward, Mrs. Fred Hobbs, Mrs. Kenneth Baird, Mrs. Paul Wallace, Mrs. Newton Richards, Mrs. Ted Roper, Mrs. Hugh Haley, Mrs. Ray Crenshaw, Mrs. Burton Wright, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. C. E. Shipp, Miss Bonnie Dunham, Miss Jimmie Flagg, Miss Katie Buxton, Miss Dorothy Holmes and Miss Emily Holmes.

Odds and Ends Will Be on Sale

Ebells' day nursery committee, of which Mrs. T. D. Knights is chairman, is planning a benefit sale as a final unique feature of the year. This will be called a "Manufacturers' Advertising sale" and will be held for four days in the rooms at Fourth and Bush streets.

The committee has a large amount of material in readiness for the sale, since various manufacturers have given quantities of their goods to be sold to benefit the day nursery. Soap, cleaning powder and paste, teas, coffees, spices, extracts, health food, flour, dust cloths, brushes, stationery, furniture polish, disinfectants, salves and ointments, in fact almost unbelievable supplies have been given to the members for disposal.

The committee members have been preparing for the event ever since January, and now with the Spring Market over, they felt that the time has come to present the sale. It will be given Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week and then the following Monday, there will be a clearance sale of all articles left over.

The afternoon was happily spent in sewing and in playing several entertaining games arranged for the occasion by the hostesses. Delicious refreshments were served. Guests included Mrs. A. G. Halum, Mrs. J. Hantsberger, Mrs. G. P. O'Connor, Mrs. C. E. Price, Mrs. A. W. Rimel, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. A. Thompson, Mrs. J. C. Farrar and Mrs. L. E. Williams.

Farewell Luncheon Is Given As Courtesy To Mrs. Lopez

The Misses Bertha and Barbara Klatt were hostesses at a delightful one o'clock luncheon Thursday, their guests being the members of their club, the Jolly Dozen. The luncheon was given in honor of Mrs. Olive Lopez, who is leaving Santa Ana for Sacramento Monday, and who, upon her return will make her home in Hollywood.

The long dining table was a dream of beauty with its iridescent flower bowl filled with lovely spring blossoms in pastel colors. The nut cups were tall waxen tulips, in pale yellow and rose alternating. They held the dainty little place cards at their bases.

Following the enjoyment of the delicious luncheon with the fried rabbit as the pièce de résistance, the hostesses placed the card tables and an afternoon of 500 was in order.

The prize for high score was awarded to Mrs. J. W. Markel and for low to Mrs. S. E. Grotty, while to Mrs. Lopez was presented a beautiful ring and brooch in Italian mosaic, which will always be to her a pleasant reminder of her dozen warm friends, who have been banded together for nearly three years, and who showered her with good wishes for happiness in her new home.

Those participating in the day's pleasures besides the hostesses and honor guest, were Mrs. Frank Klatt, mother of the hostesses, Mesdames Elizabeth Dryer, Charles Schmiedeburg, J. W. Markel, S. E. Grotty, Frank Koss, George W. Young, John Rudolph, Joseph Haupt, Frank B. Smith and H. A. Shugart.

Kindergarten Party For Little Maid

Little Miss Beryl Jean Wilson and her playmates at Spurgeon kindergarten, are going to retain happy memories of the little maid's birthday, for it was celebrated in such delightful fashion at the kindergarten, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Maurie Hamill, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Oleson.

The children spent some time fashioning little pocketbooks in any chosen color, and pennies, nickels and dimes to put in them. Mrs. Wilson had prepared and brought to school, a supply of jello, a birthday cake with fancy frosting, an assortment of large Easter eggs, and cunning little baskets of tiny eggs.

These were placed on tables decked with gay pink covers, also brought by Mrs. Wilson, and with one of the three adults to preside at each table, the children had the fun of spending their "money" on the refreshments.

Before a starting in to eat the goodies, the little people sang "Happy Birthday to Beryl Jean," and then another birthday greeting to Elizabeth Jones who, it was discovered was also having a birthday, and so who had the place of honor next to Beryl Jean.

Everything was planned as a surprise to the little girl, even the little purses and coins being made without anyone guessing their purpose. In addition to the children of the kindergarten, there were Beryl Jean's playmates, four-year-old little Grace Holmes and her little brother, Donald Holmes, present to enjoy the fun.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Andrew Jackson

Sketches by Bessey
Synopsis By Brucher

In his war on the United States bank as a citadel of privilege, Jackson was opposed by his own cabinet and the Senate. When Jackson ordered William J. Duane, secretary of the treasury, to stop depositing public money in the bank, Duane declined and was displaced. Jackson appointed Roger B. Taney who carried out the order.

Feeling ran so high that the Senate passed a resolution of censure against Jackson, the first such proceeding in American history.

Jackson carried on his fight undaunted, and the old bank was not re-chartered. The sub-treasury system was established.

Jackson, his two terms ended, retired to seclusion at the Hermitage, his place near Nashville. Before his death friends offered him the sarcophagus of the Roman emperor Severus, but he chose to share the plain tomb of his beloved Rachel. He died in 1845. (Next: John Jacob Astor.)

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The parachute sailed on through space. A smile spread on each Tiny's face. They surely thought it lots of fun to ride upon the air. Then, slow but sure, the wind grew strong and, with much speed, took them along, and kept the funny basket ship bobbing here and there.

They drifted in a cloud ere long and there the wind was not so strong. But, when they reached the middle everything was out of sight. Said Clowzy, "What a funny place. I'll bet 'twill get dirt on my face, for everywhere I turn to look, it's just as black as night."

And then the cloud was left behind and Coppy shouted, "Fate is kind. I thought perhaps we might be lost in blackness all day long." Just then a crash of thunder broke and Coppy said, "This is no joke. It sounds like war up in the sky. Now, something must be wrong."

Then Scouty looked and heaved a sigh. Said he, "There's rain up in the sky. I always know because I see a raincloud overhead. I fear we'll all get soaking wet. Where is some safe place we can get? I wish that it was down on earth tucked in a cozy bed."

Just then the rain came falling down and made each Tiny sadly frown. But Clowzy changed their blues right quick and made them loudly hoot. "Let's climb the ropes. Come on," said he. "I'll keep you dry. Just follow me. We'll hide away from raindrops underneath the parachute."

So very little time was spent, 'cause up the ropes the whole band went. They huddled neath the parachute and kept themselves real dry. An hour or so went by and then they quickly all slid down again, for now 'twas safe because the wind had blown the rain on by.

BEAUTY CHATS
NEW STYLES OF BOBS

There are several advantages in bobbed hair. If you have a very dry scalp, or a lot of dandruff, you can keep your scalp soaked with oil for weeks at a time, which in the end will cure you, and still wear your hair in an attractive way. Of course, with long hair that's not possible. But with very short hair, it makes little difference.

Suppose you scalp is in bad condition, and you must treat it. I'd suggest that you rub it every other night for a week—that is, three nights during the week, with hot olive oil or with hot crude oil. Rub the oil into the scalp, parting the hair and rubbing along the partings. It is nonsense to say that this treatment keeps the hair itself from getting oily, because it doesn't, but it makes it less oily than if you had put it on in a haphazard fashion.

Here's a suggestion about dress-surface oiliness, too. When you've rubbed the oil into the scalp, take a thick old towel, preferably a warm one, and rub and rub the hair with it. It rubs off a great deal of oil, and keeps it from staining your pillow case. It rubs off quite a lot of dirt, and makes the hair shiny rather than oily and sticky.

Here's a suggestion about dressing excessively oiled hair, when it is cut in the short boyish shingle.

Part far to the side, comb back behind the ears, and comb the short side that is, the parted side, on back so that the hair goes side-wise across the back of the head instead of up and down. The longer part of the hair on the other side, is combed so the hair meets behind that ear. This gives a new line and a very smart one at the sides and back, a "swirl" effect that is very becoming.

C. B. D.—The price of the booklet entitled "Beauty" is ten cents, which just covers the cost of printing. You can get it by sending this amount to the newspaper and include a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Elsie P.—Consult a good skin specialist about the methods and costs of removing a birthmark.

M. M. D.—I think you have proven that you cannot bleach your hair any more and have much left. Let it grow in its natural shade even if it is a light brown.

A daily massage of the scalp and a tonic several times a week may restore it to a healthy condition again; but if your hair continues to fall and break off after a month of home treatment, you had better go to a scalp specialist and get started in building up again in the right way. Tinting with henna is preferable to using peroxide as it will hurt neither scalp nor hair.

THE FAITHFUL FLOWERS

The day she died her house went down,
As if its strength was hers alone.
The curtains changed to dusty brown
And lost the beauty they had known.
The man she'd loved threw pride away,
And deeper sank from day to day.
And then at last he disappeared
A broken thing, and winter came,
And none that pleasant doorway neared.
Dirt settled on each window frame,
The house which smiled when she was there,
Had lost the strength which kept it fair.

We watched it wither and decay,
We saw her dreams fall one by one.
For none she'd loved, with her away,
Had any heart to carry on,
And then came spring, and at the sill
There bloomed her row of daffodils.
Her bridal wreath flung spray by spray
Of beauty for the world to view.
Her peonies bloomed, as if to say
This is the thing she'd have us do.
Only the flowers she'd left behind
Had kept her lovely dreams in mind.

BEAUTY, SYMMETRY OF FACE
ARE SAME, ARTIST WRITES

This masterful oil portrait by Haskell Coffin illustrates precisely his ideally proportioned profile.

BY HASKELL COFFIN
FOR NEA Service

The perfect face, like all Gaul of Caesar's day, is divided into three parts.

These parts should be equally proportioned, of the same length and symmetrical—the forehead, the nose and the lower portion of the face, from the nose to the tip of the chin.

These three divisions should be in perfect line with one another, in plumb, as one might say. Neither the forehead nor the chin should protrude or recede.

These Chins

A heavy chin can spoil and coarsen a face as few single features can. A little chin that recedes almost stamps a person as weak. Likewise, a homely forehead mars beauty. Differences in width and shape vary tremendously in foreheads and chins of well-known beauties. Personal taste again enters here. But the length of the forehead, the nose and the mouth and chin together should be approximately equal.

No face, of course, has two perfect sides. But generally speaking, in a beautiful face both sides are of nearly identical dimensions. The round face is not the beautiful face of fullgrown womanhood. It is the baby face. To be sure, in this day, when women are youthful, they long for the youthful face.

Odd Angles

But the baby face does not intrigue the artist. It is the curves, the unusual contours, the odd angles that often give an elusive, haunting beauty to a face that make it unforgettable and utterly lovely. The pearshape of Lillian

EDITOR'S NOTE—Have you a perfect face? Haskell Coffin, the artist, in this second of six exclusive NEA and The Register articles, gives the standards by which to measure it.

Gish's face, with its wistfulness, is an example.

Women do not, as a rule, realize that beauty comes by unusual contours. Often a woman will purposely keep her "perfect side" towards a man in profile, hiding from him the less well-formed side. In reality, if she only knew it, the other side, the one with the higher cheekbones, the deeper curve in the cheek, or the more decided slant of the chin line, may be what attracted him in the first place.

Long-Faced Brilliance

Of course, the long-faced woman is often not so beautiful, but is usually the brilliant one. If her nose happens to be high. Yet probably the most fascinating faces in the world have been the slender oval ones with distinctive contour here or there.

Contour of face is one beauty ingredient that woman can do little to help. But the way a head is carried also controls the chin line. And a certain graceful poise can redeem a whole head.

A THOUGHT

He that is not with me is against me.—Luke xi:23.

The wavering mind is a base property.—Euripides.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Perhaps a lady who discovers a certain brand of cheese isn't quite so important as another lady who discovers radium. But at any rate, Mme. Marie Harel, who was born in Vimoutiers, France, in 1761, and who made the first camembert cheese, is getting a statue in her native burg for that benefit to mankind. The feminists won't especially approve. They will send someone, perhaps, to rummage about in the town's records and seek to discover a woman who has "done something more" than make cheese. Regardless of the capabilities of women, regardless of whether or not she has had the same opportunity to do "other things than cooking" that men have, one wonders if the world at large will not always choose as woman's greatest achievement, her successes in the culinary realm. After all, why not? Why isn't food artistry as great an artistry as that wrought with paints and pens? It is more necessary and more appreciated by the greatest number.

RADIO MURDER

Because his wife wanted to hear one dance orchestra on the radio, and he wanted to hear another, Fred Huber, 30, shot to death his wife, Eleanor, 26, the other night. Much will be said with this as a starter about the "menace of radio," just as every new thing has brought its wave of calamity-howlers. It seems rather unnecessary to remark that a man who would murder his wife for this triviality is the same man who would murder his wife if the steak wasn't well done, if she trumped an ace, spilled gravy, or forgot to wind the clock.

Queer Quirks of NATURE

A WILDERNESS BANQUET TABLE

By ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

The hawthorn, known too as the thorn apple, is one wilderness shrub that may truly be said to spread for birds and animals of the forest.

Deer, rabbits, partridge and pheasants are regular visitors to this banquet table during the fall and winter months, and occasionally even a fox or coyote will come in for a meal of the small, tart, red fruit.

Even humans do not scorn the thorn apples. Country lads prize them as a tidbit with but one drawback, the white grub that so often liners in the meaty flesh.

The hawthorn is most often a dense shrub, although it occasionally reaches the proportions of a tree, low and wide-spreading, resembling an apple tree in form and style of branching. The branches are armed with long stout spikes or thorns, needle-tipped and capable of inflicting deep scratches.

It is these thorns that the Indian tribesmen are said to have first used as barbs on their primitive stone fishhooks, binding them on so that they operated after the fashion of a modern spring hook.

The haw blossoms, appearing early in spring, are white, not showy, and have little fragrance.

In nearly every instance the literature of modern European nations began with the translation of the Bible.

YOST THEATER
"April Fool," which is billed for tonight at the Yost theater, is an adaptation of the play, "April Showers." Those who saw the play on the stage will look forward with much hope for the screen version. The play itself was a gem, but much that was suggested or implied in the stage production promises a greater treat in its actual performance.

Nat Ross, who directed the production for Chadwick Pictures Corporation, has chosen a cast of capable and popular players, of whom much may be expected. Baby Peggy, Pat Moore and Leon Holmes, three of the brightest kids of the screen, who appear in the earlier episodes, grow up into Duane Thompson, Edward Phillips and Raymond Keane, three juveniles who seem to be climbing rapidly toward stardom.

Snitz Edwards and Nat Carr, brother of Alexander, are among the others.

WEST COAST-WALKER
"Frisco Sally Levy," a sparkling comedy romance of Irish-Jewish life with Sally O'Neil and Roy D'Arcy, comes to the West Coast-Walker theater Sunday.

William Beaudine, who directed Mary Pickford in "Little Annie Rooney," directed this new screen

hit, in which Sally O'Neil plays the part of a hoydenish and impudent girl courted by two lovers. Roy D'Arcy is the Jewish lover and Charles Delaney the Irish suitor. Tenen Holtz contributes a distinguished bit of character acting to this film as Sally's father, and Kate Price, as her mother, does equally good work.

The story is rich in humor, pathos and heart interest, being so profoundly true to life as to hold the attention from the first reel to the last.

Fanchon and Marco will offer their clever "Book Idea." The San Francisco Beauties present a difficult tap dance on a flight of stairs that is decidedly unique.

Jackson Murray, tenor, has a voice of rare excellence and wherever he appears he wins his audience immediately.

Other popular artists on the bill are Vera Van, who is a great favorite in Santa Ana; Constance and Clarissa, and "The Pyramid Trio," a burlesque miniature jazz band who add a great comedy touch to the bill.

YOST THEATER

"Take out the big bum!"
"Kill the umpire!"
"Come on, kid, knock a homer!"
"There goes the old game!"
These, and all the other expressions which make baseball the game it is, are included in Wallace Beery's current starring comedy, "Casey at the Bat," which arrives at the Yost Spurgeon theater Sunday for a week's engagement.

Sally O'Neil, star of the picture, "Frisco Sally Levy," which comes to the West Coast-Walker theater Sunday.

Beery, perhaps the actor to have made the most progress during the past 12 months, due to imitable performances in "Behind the Front," "We're in the Navy Now" and "Old Ironsides," enacts the small town junk man who suddenly finds himself catapulted to fame and fortune when a big league baseball scout signs him to a Giant contract.

Imagine if you will (it isn't difficult) Beery as the hero of America, the Babe Ruth of 1890. Picture the laughs as Wallace hits a home run with one hand while holding a stein of beer in the other. Think of the roars that'll be forthcoming as he climbs on the stage of the old Casino theater and makes a personal appearance.

Ford Sterling enacts Beery's Columbus by "discovering" him. ZaSu Pitts is the Centerville belle and Sterling Holloway, Beery's villainous manager.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
That delightful romancer, Peter B. Kyne, seems to have a particular penchant for writing stories that register effectively on the screen. The latest photoplay based on a Kyne story, "Jim the Conqueror," which opened auspiciously at the Yost Broadway last night, maintains the record of screen successes made from this popular writer's books.

"Jim the Conqueror" is a melodrama of modern romance. It starts in Italy and culminates on the great American plains, with William Boyd in the role of a hard-fighting, fast-shooting conqueror of hearts and tamer of bad cattlemen of the west. The crux of the drama is a battle for land and water hole rights—a never-ending feud between the sheepmen and cattle barons of the plains. Through this vital melodrama, punctuated with exciting situations and whizzing bullets, there runs the tender romance of a boy and a girl whose happiness is jeopardized through their heritage of feud traditions. It all ends happily, however, when the opposing forces are finally reconciled to the fact that "right is right."

In this latest film, Tom Mix, as Tom Mills, a ranchman, acts as a dispatch bearer during the World war in France, where he has gone as the captain of a troop of cowboys. Here he finds, however, that he must change from horse to motorcycle and some of the most gripping scenes ever filmed show Tom and his buddies flying over shell torn roads with bursting shrapnel tearing the scenery to pieces all around them.

"The Canyon of Light," however, is not a World war story. The incident in Flanders fields is a well motivated episode that explains why, with the best element away fighting in the trenches, desperadoes are able to terrorize the western community where Tom and his cowboys have their homes.

Novelty songs, clever dances, comedy skits and musical hits are all offered in the stage presentation. Song, dance and comedy is furnished by a group of Fanchon and Marco's leading artists, while the every happy Bobby Wolf, with his band, supplies the music.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
Assisted by a male sextette and presenting choice selections from his repertoire of past and present successes, Ernest R. Ball, America's premier ballad composer, comes tomorrow for an engagement at the Yost Broadway theater.

Ball has composed more than 300 sentimental ballads. Among his best-known compositions are "Mother Machree," "Love Me and the World is Mine," "Who Knows," "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold," "Boy of Mine," "December and May," "Let the Rest of the World Go By," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "In the Garden of My Heart."

He has collaborated with Chauncey Olcott, George Graff Jr., Mayor James J. Walker of New York and other dignitaries on the creation of songs. The most illustrious interpreter of his numbers is John McCormack, who includes several of them in his regular concert repertoire.

In 1907, Ball, persuaded by public demand, accepted a vaudeville booking and toured triumphantly, his rich voice and brilliant wit winning him exceptional favor.

Each season since, theater-goers have anxiously awaited his arrival. For some years he appeared as a "single" and later with Maud Lambert. Last season he headed a presentation called "A Vaudeville Musicale."

"Three Hours," the first National picture which begins an engagement at the Yost Broadway theater tomorrow, gives Corinne Griffith, the star, an opportunity for dramatic acting somewhat similar to that offered in "Black Oxen," one of her most successful vehicles.

The supporting cast includes John Bowers and Hobart Bosworth.

New York City today has nearly twice as many inhabitants as had the entire United States when the first census was taken, in 1790.

Nine Popes have reigned less than one month, and 300 less than one year.

TYPING CLASS MEMBERS SEEK HONORS IN L. A.

Typing students of the Santa Ana Polytechnic high school were today competing against the best student typists of Southern California in the annual contest being held in Los Angeles at the Fremont high school.

Miss Hazel Crawford has attained a speed of 75 words a minute in practice. She is recognized as one of the fastest typists in the contest. Several individual cups for speed and accuracy are being offered and it is likely that she may win. The award of the cups to the winning school and the individual students will be made at the regular spring meeting of commercial teachers May 14 in Los Angeles.

The Santa Ana students in class one of beginning typists are Louise Mason, Erich Reineau, Gladys Cope, Mary Elizabeth Smith and Phyllis O'Connor; in class two of second year students, Mildred Stumpf, Catherine Lacy, Merville Williams and Hazel Crawford; in class three of third year students, Helen Sexton and Alberta Briggs.

GAPS IN STATE HIGHWAY CHAIN BEING CLOSED

Slowly but surely the gaps in the State's Coast highway are closing. Returning from Sacramento this week, where he attended a meeting of the California Highway Commission, J. P. Baumgartner reported that the bids have been called for covering the paving of a gap in the coast highway between Naples and Anaheim Bay bridge, about 1 1/2 miles in length.

At the same time he reported that negotiations are practically completed so that work can proceed on the gap at Serra, which has been held up ever since the recent flood conditions on account of the changes in the channel of the stream caused by the flood. These changes made it necessary to alter the plans for bridges, and also important water rights of the Dana Point people were involved.

The next important work to be done in this county, Mr. Baumgartner said, probably would be the widening, straightening and reconstruction of a part of the trunk line of the coast highway, between El Toro and Galvan. This work will include separation of the grade crossing at Galvan, for which an agreement has been reached between the Santa Fe railroad and the state highway commission.

Dr. Greene, who was for 30 years president of William Jewell college, a Baptist institution located in Liberty, is scheduled to take part in graduation exercises in May. This trip marks the first the Greens have taken to their old home in many years.

STATE HIGHWAY AT TUSTIN IS THROWN OPEN TO MOTORISTS

Four Traffic Lanes of Ten Feet Each Provided in Mile and Half Stretch

TOTAL COST IS $250,000

Expense Divided Between Highway Commission, County, Land Owners

The State highway between Santa Ana and Tustin was open to traffic today and the hundreds of motorists driving through this city tomorrow enroute to San Diego and intermediate points, will travel over a section of highway that is equal to the best in any section of the state system.

The highway has been closed from the city limits on First street to Laguna drive, Tustin, since December 1, and was thrown open to traffic Thursday afternoon. Various detours around the Tustin district have been used. Signs directing traffic over the temporary routes have been taken down, leaving motorists to follow the route formerly in use.

According to J. B. Hodges, resident engineer in charge of the work, completion of the paving contract by the Griffith company was delayed several weeks by the heavy rains of the season.

The paving extends a distance of 1.6 miles, starting at Mabury street, this city, and ending at Laguna drive, Tustin. The street has been widened to 80 feet, and the paved section is 56 feet from curb to curb.

Four ten-foot traffic lanes have been provided, with eight feet for parking on each side of the street. The width provides ample spaces for two lines of traffic in each di-

First Section of Century Road Is Being Graded

The first section of the Century boulevard in Orange county was under development today at Garden Grove.

It is a stretch approximately three-fourths of a mile in length, running from Ocean avenue to the Garden Grove-Santa Ana road.

Charles Henry, road foreman, has a crew at work grading and oiling the street, and when it is opened it will obviate necessity for motorists to drive through the business heart of Garden Grove.

HUP AGENCY IS TAKEN IN S. A. BY LEGION MAN

Wilbur Getty, past president of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, and well known business man, today had added an automobile agency to his list of activities.

Getty has formed a partnership with G. H. Borgwardt, formerly of Seattle, and the new firm has taken the agency for the Hupmobile. They have established sales and display rooms at 619 East Fourth street.

Russell Riffe has been appointed sales manager. For the present, the firm will maintain a service garage at 419 East Fourth street, but contemplate the erection later of a building at 613 East Fourth for housing a service department for Hupmobiles.

Five new Hup models were on display today. Plans were under consideration for a formal opening of the agency next Saturday evening, when a dance in Getty's hall will be one of the features.

40 MILE LIMIT MEASURE WAITS YOUNG'S NAME

Motor Vehicle Chief Says Higher Limit Will Cause More Respect for Law

Carrying a speed limit of 40 miles an hour, Senator Arthur H. Breed's 1927 motor vehicle act today awaited the signature of Governor C. C. Young and a date 90 days after adjournment of the legislature to make it effective.

The speed limit was inserted in the bill at the suggestion of Frank G. Snook, chief of the motor vehicle division, who has asserted in public utterances that "40 miles an hour is a perfectly safe rate of speed out on the open highways," and that "raising the law will tend toward greater respect for the law because most people now drive faster than 35 miles an hour." In his opinion it will tend to prevent congestion.

The new measure also carries a provision making it mandatory for every new applicant for a motor vehicle license to submit to an examination as to qualifications for operating a machine.

Various ambiguities regarding the definition of semi-trailers and other vehicles, of a nondescript character are cleared up in the new act. An attempt is made to relieve farmers of a portion of their tax burden by eliminating concrete mixers, well borers, spraying machines, and similar equipment from payment of license fees.

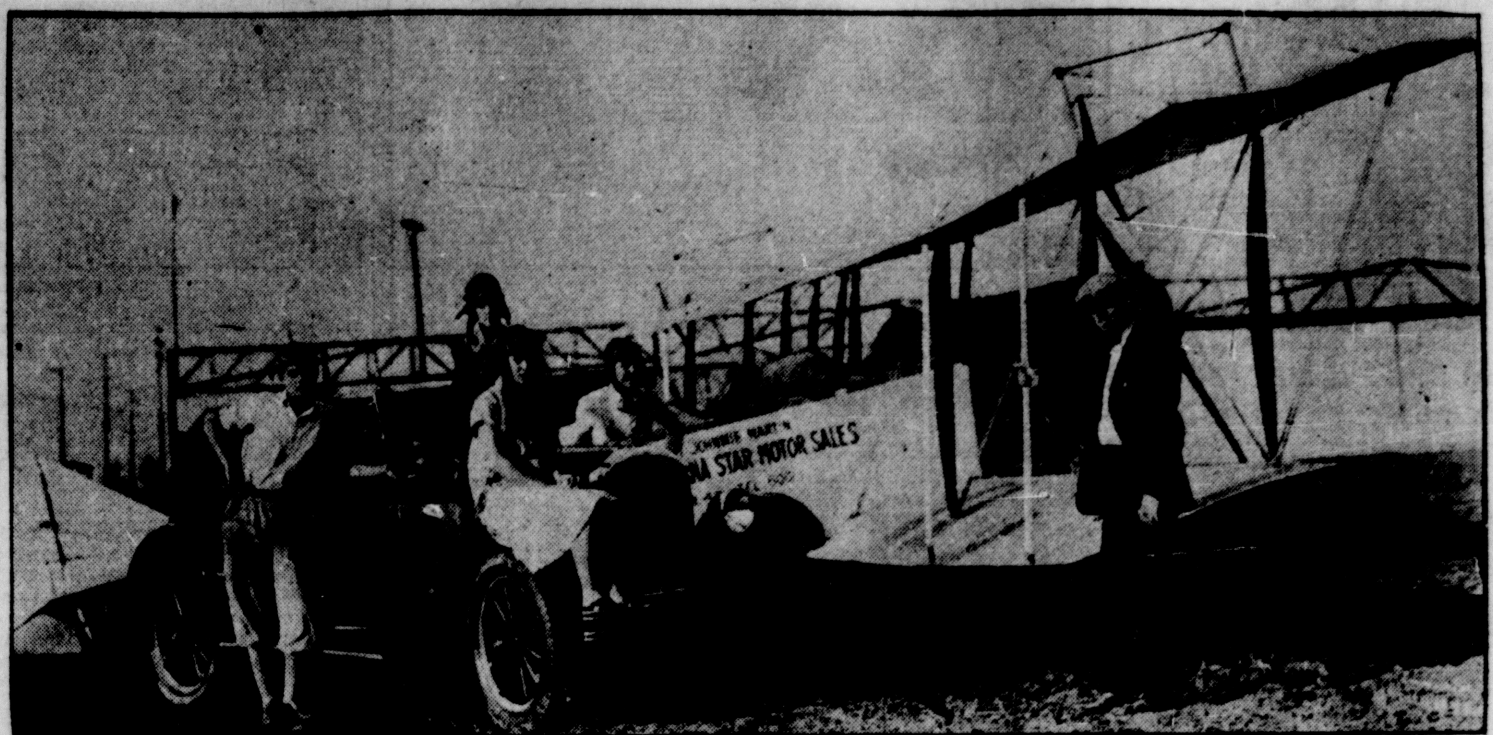

Extend Out-of-State Permits Another amendment gives the division the power to extend the ten-day temporary permit privilege to out-of-state motorists at its discretion.

Chauffeurs licenses expire December 31 instead of January 31 to conform to the expiration dates of other driving licenses.

No changes, except those of a technical character, were made in the ownership certificate features of the law.

Senator Breed's bill also contains a new provision which its proponents declared is expected to result in more convictions of intoxicated drivers. The section authorizing

NEW STAR COLLEGIATE ROADSTER MAKES BIG HIT WITH SNAPPY DRESSERS AT POLY HIGH SCHOOL

ISSUE WARNING TO CAR OWNERS ON 'VULTURES'

Criminal complaints issued in Los Angeles against the president and secretary of the Los Angeles Automobile association emphasize again that motor vehicle owners constantly must "watch their step."

Although legitimate motoring organizations frequently warn the public against all sorts of promotion schemes to obtain money from motorists, there is still a flourishing business done the country over by fly-by-night promoters.

While irresponsible organizations constantly are springing up in all parts of the country, Southern California is their favorite spot of operation because there are more automobiles here per capita than in any place in the world, and there is a never-ending stream of newcomers who fall easy victims to the plausible stories and promises of protection and service for their car.

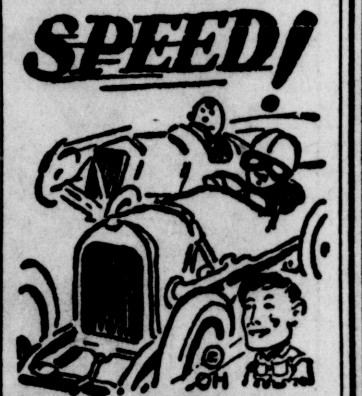

One of the most flagrant cases of bilking the incoming motorist was an outfit providing itself with stop signs on the road entering California via Needles. When the visiting motorist stopped he was informed that the California law demanded that he get a special permit immediately. A fee of $2 was required for this service by the promoters, when in fact, there is no charge. This permit may be obtained free by the visiting motorist from any legitimate motor club office or the state motor vehicle department.

New Studebaker Gets High Mile Record On Fuel

Not only can Studebaker's Commander maintain a speed of more than a mile a minute for more than 5000 miles but under test driving conditions it can average 17 1-4 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

According to Harry D. Riley, county distributor, the former fact was proved on the Culver City speedway under the auspices of the American Automobile association.

The latter fact was proved in 62 cities under the supervision of accredited officials of local motor clubs. The average of the economy tests in these 62 cities showed the Commander operating on 17 1-4 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Riley says that in every case the motor club officials examined the car before its start to ascertain if it was a stock model, witnessed the economy run throughout and reported the results direct to South Bend.

AWARD WORK ON VICTORY ROAD GAP IN NEVADA

Nevada's section of the transcontinental Victory Highway will soon be a super-road from border to border upon the completion in the near future of the last gap in the state of this famous route.

Such is the situation revealed in the report of the award of contract a few days ago by the Nevada highway department for the construction of the road from Lovelock, Pershing county, to Fanning in Churchill county, a distance of nearly 18 miles calling for an expenditure of $101,645. Grading and graveling to federal aid standards is required in this construction.

In removing this last unimproved section from the Victory Highway in Nevada, one of the most vital highway projects of recent years will be accomplished, it is believed by engineering authorities of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The work will give transcontinental motor tourists a continuous improved highway on the standards set by the United States Bureau of Public Roads from the Utah line at Wendover to the California line near Verdi, a distance of approximately 425 miles.

Bearing the technical name of Route No. 40 in the government books, this section of highway across Nevada enters Reno and continues almost directly into Sacramento.

'SNAIL' DRIVERS ARE BLAMED FOR MANY CRASHES

Speed, both slow and fast, are what make driving on the highways so dangerous. That's the discovery of the traffic committee appointed by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

This committee finds that road hogs aren't the only selfish drivers to watch. There are the slow pokes, who creep along at 10 miles an hour, but insist on taking the middle of the road regardless of others.

The result is an attempt to pass such slow drivers on the right as well as the left, hoping against hope that they won't suddenly decide to get over toward the side of the highway. The horn, in many a case, seems to be ineffective.

There's no law that affects them. They go serenely on. Police, however, might make it a practice to arrest such slow pokes, as they would the road hog and speeder, and charge them with obstructing traffic.

This might not only cure the slow driver, but it might the better eliminate the necessity of taking dangerous chances by cutting around them or passing them to the right.

FOOTHILL HIGHWAY WIDENING PLANNED

Plans for making Foothill boulevard a 100-foot highway for its entire length from San Bernardino to Santa Monica were launched at the annual meeting of the Foothill Boulevard association at Fontana.

Passage of a resolution urging property owners to co-operate in the movement by donating sufficient land for the wide right of way was the chief feature of the meeting at which officers for the ensuing year were elected.

E. Q. Sullivan, engineer in division eight for the state highway commission, announced that $1,300,000 had been set aside by the state for the widening and resurfacing of Foothill boulevard, the plan being to have an 80-foot right of way with a thirty-foot pavement. The road is eighteen feet wide now.

URGE ENTIRE NEW SET OF SPARKPLUGS

Local automotive equipment dealers, from May 1 to 7, are uniting with the Champion Spark Plug company in pointing out to motor car owners the actual economy of installing a complete new set of spark plugs in their cars if their present plugs have been used 10,000 or more miles, or have been in use more than a year.

The occasion is the Champion company's third annual national change week. During the same week a year ago nearly a million owners are estimated to have made the change.

Local dealers also announce they will give free spark plug inspection service throughout the week to all motor car owners.

MOTORISTS CAN'T PAY
More than 3000 compulsory insurance policies have already been canceled in Massachusetts because the insured motorists couldn't meet their premium payments. That means the recall of their registration plates and loss of the use of their cars.

Milk can now be produced that will keep in perfectly good condition for from 96 to 120 hours.

New Models Meet Every Desire of Adventurous Youth, Says Dealer

When it comes to "smartness" clothes, cosmetics or cars, students of high school and college age are the most discriminating.

So contends Berle E. Morthland, of the Star Motor Sales company, of Santa Ana, in reporting the favorable reaction that has been received to the new Star collegiate roadster which has just been produced by the factory in both the four and the six models.

A group of the high school students were taken to Eddie Martin's airport on South main street in one of the new roadsters by Johnny Martin, salesman-aviator, with the Star Motor Sales company, where they inspected his airplane with the view of getting pointers on "high flying."

The new roadster, with rumble seat and sport accessories, meets the requirements of adventurous youth, especially at this time of the year when a racy spin in the open is desired, according to Morthland.

Many visitors have been inspecting the new car at the Star Motor Sales agency, located at 609 East Fourth street.

Few cars can match the roadster in appearance and performance, it is claimed by the factory officials. The roadster is equipped with full balloon tires, force feed lubrication, water cooling system, disc clutch, silent chain timing drive, and weather resisting lacquer style colors of maroon.

RED FLYING CLOUD SETS FAST PACE

Covering a route that led through ten of the eleven counties of Southern California and including nearly every sort of highway, road and trail that this section of the state affords, a Red Flying Cloud stock brougham has just completed one of the most interesting runs that has been made since the days of the old Phoenix road races, in the opinion of Joe Finley, Red dealer.

Twenty hours and 58 minutes from the time the car checked out of the Western Union offices in Los Angeles it was back at the starting point, and one hour and 34 minutes of this time was spent in taking on gasoline, oil, and in checking the car into the various counties with police officers.

During the run two amateur drivers alternated behind the wheel, and at no time did they take chances or endanger either themselves or others on the roads. They were Gene Hickman and William Elliott, both employees of the Red Motor Car company of California.

"In taking the Flying Cloud over this long route in such a short time it was necessary to maintain a consistent pace and the new type Lockheed hydraulic four wheel brakes which are found exclusively on Reo, combined with the lightning-like pickup of the car in high gear, enabled them to make better time than would have been possible with a more sluggish car equipped with the ordinary type of brake," Finley said.

The counties traversed were Los Angeles, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Kern, San Bernardino, Riverside, Imperial, San Diego and Orange. Police officers stamped and signed the route map carried by the two drivers as the car reached each county seat. The car was fueled with Union Ethyl gasoline and Aristo motor oil was used. The only additions to the standard equipment that comes on the car from the Reo factory was a set of S & M lamps and an auto pulse. This latter device is in general use on runs of this sort to avoid the possibility of draining the vacuum tank on long grades.

CONSIDER NEW PARKING RULES FOR DOWNTOWN S. A. DISTRICT

City Council Committee to Make Survey of Conditions on Business Streets

ALL DAY LONG 'PARKERS' HIT

Establishment of Limits for Courthouse 'Rests' Suggested by Auto Editor

By HORACE FINE (Automobile Editor of Register)

One hour parking on down town streets is being given serious consideration by a committee appointed by the city council Monday evening to make a survey of parking conditions in the city and report recommendations back to the governing body.

At the time the present ordinance was under consideration, opinion of business men was about equally divided as between one hour and two hour parking, and the longer period finally was decided on because of the belief it would be beneficial to residents in the rural districts having business to transact with local business houses.

The two hour limit has not been effective in accomplishing its purpose—making parking spaces easily available to motorists having real business to transact.

If the one hour limit is invoked, it will be due largely to the fact that business men and clerks have monopolized the close in parking stalls, by driving their cars down town and parking them for the day. They have evaded the ordinance by moving their cars from one position to another within the time limit—and removal of a car from one block to another does not in any way lessen the number of machines parked on the streets. In fact, this has a tendency to increase congestion on the streets, for every time a car is moved it has to get into the traffic lane.

The city council has issued instruction to all employees in the city hall who do not have to use their cars for city business to keep their cars off the street. They must either leave them at home, or park them in some station.

If business firms of the city would issue such instructions, and at the same time themselves observe the recommendation, there would be more parking stalls for cars of men and women who want to trade with the merchants.

One hour parking would be a handicap to the merchants of the city, so far as customers are concerned. Women with a shopping list, as a rule, could not complete their purchases within that time, particularly if it was necessary for them to visit a number of stores. Fear of finding a "red ticket" on the wheel of their cars would be constant and the pleasure of their shopping tour would be marred—and the result would be, in many instances, that they would drive to other communities, or to the neighborhood store to do their purchasing.

Business men and their employees hold in their hands the solution to the parking problem, and the sooner they recognize this fact, and give proper co-operation to the city authorities, the better it will be.

AUBURN
America's Fastest Stock Car
Not a Working Part OF
But a Passenger IN

In ordinary cars the driver must work as though he were a part of the car's mechanism. Not so in the new Auburn Straight Eight . . . it drives itself . . . it holds the road itself . . . it does not worry nor fatigue the driver.

The secret of Auburn's pronounced popularity lies in the fact that the car not only performs better and lasts longer but it relieves the driver.

That is one of the reasons Auburn owners live on a higher plane. They enjoy a newer and finer kind of motoring service and accommodations. Their enthusiasm is contagious. Their praise prompts others to investigate Auburn. To all such we say: "There is nothing we can tell you that will add to the value built into the Auburn. Therefore we ask you to DRIVE it; compare its comfort, ease of handling, and performance; see if it meets YOUR every requirement better than any other car, and, if it does not you will not be asked to buy."

Despite the unparalleled owner-endorsement Auburn enjoys, we do not believe a single Auburn Straight Eight owner knows all of his car's capabilities. More sustained speed, more rugged endurance, and more continuous efficiency is built into the Auburn than owners ever ask us to deliver.

No one yet has "touched bottom" of Auburn's depths of VALUE, which explains why Auburn sales continue to break records.

UNBOBBED BEAUTY

This is Miss France, Mila Roberta Cusey, who will take part in the second International Pageant of Pulchritude at Galveston, Tex., May 21-23. Her unbobbed tresses were preferred by judges who chose among hundreds of bobbed heads in a contest conducted by Le Journal of Paris.

for their business enterprises.

Institution of the four-button plan for control of traffic at street intersections in the business districts, has developed a condition where the number of parking stalls in blocks will have to be reduced by at least one stall, and possibly, two. At many points in the city where the four-button control obtains, danger lurks because cars are parked too close to the corner to which the swing is made.

Parallel parking on North Sycamore street, and, probably, on West Third street, and establishment of a parking limit on streets around the court house are other changes in the traffic ordinance under consideration.

The committee is composed of Councilmen Stanley Goode and W. J. Kelly and City Engineer Clyde Jenken. If you have suggestions to make discuss them with either or all members of the committee.

rection. The pavement is seven inches thick in the center and nine inches on the edges, and is of sufficient strength to carry the weight of heavy loads without damage to the highway.

The improvement has been made at a cost of $125,000, with costs divided between the state highway commission, the county and the property owners. The state contributed 50 per cent of the cost and the county contribution was 25 per cent of the remaining half, or one-eighth of the total.

Trees that lined First street, and which were landmarks in this vicinity, were sacrificed for the improvement. Cutting of the trees started on October 27, and the street was closed to traffic on December 1, 1926.

GERMAN BEAUTY MAY LOSE CROWN

BERLIN, April 30.—Germany is soon to have a beauty queen worthy of the title "Fraulein Deutschland" to participate in international beauty contests.

The crowns of all Gretchen, including that of Hilde Quandt, who was recently chosen as the prettiest girl from 50 competitors, have been challenged as unrepresentative. So the league for the cultivation of physical beauty has organized a contest on the American plan. Forty-four cities already have consented to select their prize beauties.

The rule provides that girls will not have to wear bathing suits unless they desire, but "no artificial aids to shapeliness" are to be permitted beneath whatever single tight-fitting garment the contestants want to wear.

The bathing suit regulation was made optional, because many provincial Gretchen shy at revealing too much of their figures in public. The winners of the city contests will then enter the finals in Berlin.

Data on number, location and cause of highway accidents involving death or injuries will be compiled by the state under the new act.

Close Check on Stolen Cars
Assemblyman Roy J. Nielsen, presenting the bill in the lower house, said state peace officers will be required under its terms to report to the state the theft of all motor vehicles not recovered within a week. The division of motor vehicles will maintain a stolen car record and check this record before permitting transfer of automobiles.

Garage owners, the bill declares, must report to the police when any automobile is stored with them more than thirty days and the owner's identity and address are unknown.

Among other provisions, the division of motor vehicles is granted a greater operating allowance to permit employment of additional state traffic officers.

In the latter connection, the Assembly, 58 to 15, approved Senator Roy Fellom's constitutional amendment submitting to the people a $10,000,000 bond issue to eliminate dangerous grade crossings.

State highway commission statistics showed that 200 persons were killed and 600 injured in California railroad grade crossing accidents last year.

Pending vote of the people, it is intended that grade crossing separation work shall be carried on under a special fund.

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Nash 7-bearing crankshaft takes longer to build—costs more

It takes longer to build a 7-bearing motor than it does to build one with only 3 or 4 main bearings.

There are at least 3 more bearings to hone and polish. (Nash has considerably more bearing surface than other six-cylinder motors in the Nash price field with 4-bearing crankshafts.)

There are at least 3 more bearings to align. And there are at least 3 more bearings to check for proper clearances.

But the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft eliminates the "whip" which loosens bearings and piles up expensive shopwork on motors with fewer crankshaft bearings.

Obviously, it costs more in time and money to build the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft.

Why then does Nash build it, when other manufacturers still use engines with fewer bearings?

The answer is that Nash owners have come to expect Nash to be definitely better than any other car they could buy at the Nash price.

And 7 bearings alone produce superlative power-smoothness and power-quietness.

Before you select your new motor car, drive a Nash and see how smooth it is at high speeds, how powerful and effortless its pick-up at every speed.

Buick Power is proved on the "24-Hour Hill"

Buick does not guess about the power of the Buick Valve-in-Head Engine.

Buick knows this famous engine produces more power for its size than any other automobile engine on earth.

Buick has proved this fact decisively, in comparison with many cars, at the great Proving Ground of General Motors, on the "24-Hour Hill"—a mechanical device which faithfully

VETERANS WILL GREET BUDDIES AT L. A. MEET

A large number of Santa Ana men who saw service with the 91st Division (Pinetree) in the World War, are making arrangements to attend the last meeting of the 91st Division Association before next September, to be held at the Patriotic Hall, Los Angeles, on the night of May 4.

At this time, the Signal Corps picture featuring "The 91st Division in Action," will be shown. This picture shows Pinetree boys in action both in France and Belgium and is one of the outstanding pictures taken during the war.

Colonel E. V. Smith, chief of staff of the 91st Division, O. R. C., will be the principal speaker of the evening. His address will be of interest to men who served.

Eddie Peabody, billed as "the boy who made the banjo famous" will stage an entertainment featuring all his own, entitled "Who Won the War," and Miss Dunn, of radio fame with her assistants are also featured in the entertainment announced.

The meeting will be the last held until after the summer months.

Friday Afternoon Club Will Stage Bazaar May 3, 4, 5

COSTA MESA, April 30.—The biennial bazaar of the Costa Mesa Friday Afternoon club is to be held May 3, 4 and 5. It was announced today. Final arrangements for the affair were made recently. The ways and means committee of the club is in charge of plans.

The bazaar will be one of the biggest things ever attempted by the local women. It will open every day at 10:30 o'clock and will close at 10:30 p. m. Special programs have been arranged featuring a number of well known out of town artists.

Tuesday evening will be radio night. Mammy Lou, well known KJH artist, will be present at the bazaar.

Mrs. Robert Home, of Santa Ana, will present readings at the program Wednesday night. Other Santa Ana musicians are to appear on the Wednesday evening program.

Miss Faustina Lucero, well known dancer, will present a number of solo dances Thursday evening. Several of her pupils will appear on the program.

Merchants of Costa Mesa have taken space in the club rooms, where the bazaar will be held, and the club women have been preparing fancy work and other articles for the past several months, in anticipation of the affair.

The latest "China Year Book" gives the number of foreigners resident in China as 320,000, of whom more than half are Japanese.

TALBERT

TALBERT, April 30.—The surprise was carried out Wednesday evening on Miss Agnes Gisler in observance of her birthday anniversary. The social affair was planned by her mother Mrs. Robert Gisler, who saw to it that Miss Gisler was fully occupied at the hour for the arrival of the guests. Cards was the diversion of the evening and a midnight supper was served.

In the company were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gisler, Ernest and Antone Gisler, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gisler, of Costa Mesa, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gisler, of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Penhall and children, of Cypress; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Krukenburg and children, of Downey; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fallon, of Downey; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stoffle and son, Bernard Jr., of Anaheim; Miss Bennett and Robert Marshall, of Huntington Beach; Bernice Callens, Joe Callens, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gisler, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gisler and children, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gisler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gisler and son Harold, Gisler of this place.

Mrs. Robert Wardlow and daughters, the Misses Helen and Louise Wardlow, were among local people in attendance at the high school dedication Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carter, of Long Beach, visited Wednesday evening with Mrs. Carter's mother and sister, Mrs. M. L. Thurman and Mrs. S. E. Talbert. They were accompanied by their son, Earl Carter and wife and family, also of Long Beach.

Bernice Callens was ill with a cold Friday.

County workmen are this week making a permanent fill at the cut in the old road passing the R. L. Callens ranch, where the river did so much damage this spring.

Bob Harper, of "Bob's grocery," is back in the store after an absence of several days, the result of influenza.

The Rev. S. T. Ban, Japanese minister, and his family, attended the high school dedication service at Huntington Beach Wednesday evening.

The Missionary society of the Talbert and Greenville churches of the Methodist church, south, met on Thursday for the regular all-day gathering, this meeting being held at the Greenville church. The usual pot-luck dinner was held at noon.

Those attending from Talbert were the Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Woodson, Mrs. Anna Helm, Mrs. M. L. Thurman and Mrs. Frank Cairrell. The May meeting was announced to be held at the Talbert church May 26, at which Mrs. Woodson and Mrs. Thurman will entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward had planned a trip to Dinuba for this week and when all packed and ready to leave at an early morning hour, a telephone message came from Los Angeles from Mrs. Ward's sister-in-law, Mrs. Jack Ambrose, saying that she and her son were in the city. As she was the object of the Ward's surprise visit, the trip was given up and Mrs. Ward went to Los Angeles instead, to see them. Mr. Ward spent the day with his relatives at Compton and Mrs. Ward joined him there in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lacabanne motored to Los Angeles Wednesday for a farewell visit with Mrs. Lacabanne's sister, Mrs. Henry Landin, and family, who are leaving within a few days for a month's motor trip to Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gisler and the Misses Agnes and Lucille Gisler attended the dedication of the Huntington Beach high school Wednesday evening.

S. E. Talbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rogers, Miss Dorothy Rogers, Rose and Violet Rogers formed a party to Huntington Beach Wednesday evening to attend the high school dedication service and look over the fine new building.

Local chili growers are extremely busy just at present as many of the peppers are now ready to appear through the ground and this necessitates raking to loosen the earth to assist the tender plants in coming up. The first crop is now ready for cultivation.

Mrs. Florel Gisler had as a visitor in her home Tuesday her mother, Mrs. George Crane, of Springdale.

Miss Rose Bushard entertained as recent over night guests, two friends, Miss Martha Hoppes, of Long Beach, and Miss Grace Schloser, of Sunset Beach.

Harry Hartz—

America's Champion Race Driver says of the

Studebaker Commander:

"Based on my experience driving my personal Studebaker Commander and in making the recent record run at Culver City Speedway with a Studebaker Commander strictly stock model, it is my opinion that it will maintain any given speed, up to sixty-five miles per hour, longer, more smoothly, and at less expense per hour traveled, for gasoline, oil and repairs, than any other stock automobile now being built in the United States."

IN a sensational test made at Culver City, California, under the auspices of the American Automobile Association, The Commander, a strictly stock enclosed car, ran 5,000 miles in 4,909 minutes, total elapsed time—better than mile-a-minute speed for 81 consecutive hours and 49 minutes—the fastest speed for the farthest distance ever attained by any stock car!

Repairs Negligible

This is equivalent in stress and strain to 25,000 miles of ordinary driving. Yet in establishing this and nine intervening world records, the only replacements and repairs necessary on The Commander were three grease cups (damaged by hasty greasing), one spark plug, and one tire change.

Harry Hartz had bought a Commander Victoria for his personal car prior to his participation in the establishment of ten new world records. So there is real knowledge back of his statement that The Studebaker Commander will "maintain any given speed up to sixty-five miles per hour, longer, more smoothly and at less expense per hour traveled for gasoline, oil, and repairs than any other stock automobile now being built in the United States."

Drive Commander Yourself

To know the real thrill of Studebaker Big Six performance, its flashing speed, giant power, and finger-tip ease of handling, you must drive a Commander yourself. Only with your own hands on the wheel, your own foot on the throttle, can you fully appreciate why the Studebaker Big Six now far out-sells the combined totals of all other cars in the world of equal or greater rated horsepower—why we say and how we prove that The Commander will out-perform and out-live any other car, six or eight, selling for less than $2500.

LABOR SAVING MACHINES CUT PRICE OF CARS

(This is the sixth in a series of stories on how the modern automobile is made.—Editor.)

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
NEA Service Writer

One reason why your dollar goes farther in the purchase of an automobile than any other commodity these days is the use of labor-saving and time-saving machinery. This was seen in the manufacture of the parts that go to make up the engine—in a lathe that takes the place of 10 men, in another that takes the place of six, in instruments that eliminate the human element of error.

This is further brought out in the manufacture of the remaining parts of the car. Heavy, cumbersome machinery is lined up along the floors of automobile plants nowadays, each working electrically, each doing its share automatically, accurately and without the slightest difference among the parts turned out.

There is one gear cutting machine, for instance, that requires only a man's supervision. It goes through four different operations, moving first this way, then that, cutting a tooth to shape and size, then moving on to the next.

After being cut down, the gears are ground down to exact size and microscopic instruments for exactness in dimensions and angles.

Hardened by Heat and Oil Gears, because of the heavy strain they must undergo, are "heat treated." That changes their crystal structure and hardens them.

Heat treatment includes putting

DECLINES INTERVIEW

The Comtesse Alexandra Dagmar, Frances Marie Margarethe of Rosenborg flatly declined to be interviewed the other day at Arcadia, Calif., where her parents, the Prince and Princess Erik of Denmark, live on their estate. But she sleepily consented to pose. The princess, her mother, is holding her. She is the former Lois Booth, daughter of the Canadian lumber king.

a part into a furnace and bringing it up to a definite temperature, when the metal becomes red hot. It is then dipped into an oil bath where it is kept for a definite time to satisfy the demands for hardening.

The gear at the end of the camshaft has to be hardened by heat treatment, but the shaft itself must remain tough and comparatively soft and tensile. So all of the shaft except the gear end is copper coated by an electroplating process. This protects the shaft itself from the process of hardening.

After the gears are finished and heat treated, they are set up in experimental transmission cases, in small enclosed rooms. Here each transmission set is run by a motor outside, to be tested for silence.

The least noise is detected and located, the motor is stopped and the gears are ground down further by means of a portable grinding machine. They are also tested for play with an instrument, similar to hundreds scattered through the plant, that multiplies any deviation from the true ten-fold.

How Carburetor is Made

The clutch, too, is tested on the shaft of a motor for ease and positiveness in operation, after its many intricate parts have been tested individually.

Even finer is the carburetor in its manufacture. Here is perhaps the most complicated part in the entire car, and the most sensitive. Every measurement, every angle and thread must be accurate to make it an efficient mechanism.

The modern carburetor, with its thermostatic arrangement, its fly valve for backfire control and all its other useful gadgets, goes through 43 distinct operations in its manufacture.

The simplest operation here might in some respects become complicated and precise. In one case a large monitor lathe takes six manipulations to bore a small hole and cut a thread in the carburetor. One man handles this, where formerly several had to cover the operation, or it took one many times as long.

Quick Work on Chassis

One of the greatest labor savers is a gang drill, which drills as many as 92 holes at the same time, all of varying sizes, into each channel bar of the chassis frame.

The chassis itself, especially in the higher-grade cars, is electrically welded or riveted, as required. After this, there is the completion of the radiator and fenders and the construction of the body, to have all the parts necessary for the final assembly.

The rear transmission and axle are first put together and tested by a dynamometer. They are put into the chassis and this part takes its first run along a floor conveyor through a series of assembly operations that bring it up in the end a complete chassis, needing only the installation of the engine.

Engine Assembly and Test.

The engine assembly is separate, going along from bars crankcase and cylinder block, in a slow steady line through the process of installing crankshaft and camshaft, gears and pistons and connecting rods—each step being checked for trueness. The ignition system, usually bought outside, is attached by electrical experts, and the finishing touches are put on the whole engine.

Before the engine is attached to the chassis, it goes through a dynamometer test. It is run, in a large, high-vaulted airy room and under natural gas as fuel. After a run of eight hours the engine is turned over and tested again for excessive wear or play in the moving parts.

The chassis gets a similar dynamometer test of even longer duration, and when the chassis and engine are together the entire assembly is taken out for a test run of from one to five hours.

WHERE ENERGY GOES

One-third of the energy from the engine of an automobile is lost to the cooling water, another third to the exhaust gases and about two-thirds of the remainder is used in overcoming friction. Road and wind resistance and excess power take up the rest.

"6 years' use without any engine repairs"

—A statement from an enthusiastic Willys-Knight owner.

The sweeping trend toward Willys-Knight — and tremendously increasing sales — are explained by distinguished performance. No other car is so richly equipped with advantages:

The Knight Engine — The only type of engine that improves with use.

7-Bearing Crankshaft — Eliminates vibration.

Skinner Rectifier — Prevents oil dilution.

4-Wheel Brakes — Positive, mechanical, quick-acting.

Bellflex Shackles — Patented spring shackles that make the chassis lastingly quiet. No greasing or adjustment.

8 Timken Bearings in Front Axle — Most fine cars have but four. Easiest steering you have ever known.

Narrow Body Pillars at Windshield — Insuring greater vision; an added safety factor.

Adjustable Front Seat — Designed to give maximum driving comfort, regardless of your size or stature.

Light Control at Steering Wheel — Within easy finger reach. Convenient as a wrist watch.

Watson Stabilizers. Air cleaner. Thermostatic temperature control. Finest upholstery and fittings.

"70" Willys-Knight Six, $1295 to $1495. Willys-Knight Great Six, $1850 to $2295. Prices f.o.b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice.

SEEK TO PROMOTE CLUB EXTENSION

Letters have been mailed to junior colleges over Southern California by Miss Mary Elizabeth Rutledge, secretary of the Beta Gamma club in the Santa Ana junior college, for the purpose of promoting the organization of similar Beta Gamma chapters in other colleges.

The Beta Gamma club is an activities honor society, it is explained, recognizing students who take part in school affairs.

A move was launched at the last meeting of the Beta Gamma members to assist in starting other chapters. In the letter, it is stated that representatives from the Santa Ana junior college will be sent to any of the Southern junior college to tell of the activities of the Beta Gamma club here in the past three years since it was founded at the suggestion of Miss Isabel Anderson.

250 SANTA ANA CHURCH WOMEN HOLD MEETING

More than 250 women of Santa Ana interested in missionary work attended the fifteenth annual meeting of the Federated Missionary Societies of Santa Ana, held in the Presbyterian church here Thursday.

Mrs. W. W. Hoy, presiding officer, opened the convocation with a silent prayer, which was followed by an inspiring devotional service under the leadership of Mrs. Moffett Rhodes, making a fitting opening for the day's program.

Mrs. Hoy's words of greeting voiced the wish of many that there might be more conferences.

The Rev. B. E. Garcia, in his address on the "Problems of the Mexican Work," objected to the word "problems" which he said should be "Victories." He declared that the work was growing in spite of the fact that as well as pastor, he had to be physician, lawyer and teacher. His parish, he said, included the county jail, the county hospital and the workers on the Santa Fe railroad. He stated he needed a larger church building and more Bibles.

Mrs. P. F. Schrock addressed the gathering on the Japanese question. She stated that the work in Santa Ana had greatly decreased and that at the present time family work was being done among three families. She also spoke of the church at Wintersburg and the generous giving of the Japanese in caring for their own people.

An exchange of events under the leadership of Mrs. Porter brought out many workable ideas for the coming year.

The address of the Rev. Eugene Carter, a worker from near San Bernardino, was a message of the necessity and value of the work among the Indian people.

The afternoon session was opened by a song service under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Hayes and a devotional service by Mrs. Logan Harter.

Mrs. A. V. Gray, for 15 years associated with her husband in missionary work in Nanking, China, spoke of the rise of the Nationalistic movement, while she was stationed in Nanking, and said at that time it was hailed with joy by the missionaries, but that it was carried too far with the infusion of the radical element by Russia.

Mrs. Gray said that not Chinese Christians but the church in America was on trial and it failed to give and pray and believe in Chinese Christianity.

Rev. Albert Fulton, for 47 years a missionary at Canton, brought a message of cheer as he spoke of how China has been exploited and bullied and defrauded by the nations of the east and how the repressing was natural and would bring about the desired reform. "Chinese Christianity will stand," he said, "and America should play the part of the big brother in this great crisis," he said.

Another missionary, the Rev. Ashmore, who spent 47 years in China, told of his work in translating the Bible into Chinese in the dialect of the common people and though obliged to give up missionary work, he had left something of infinite value in the hands of the Chinese people.

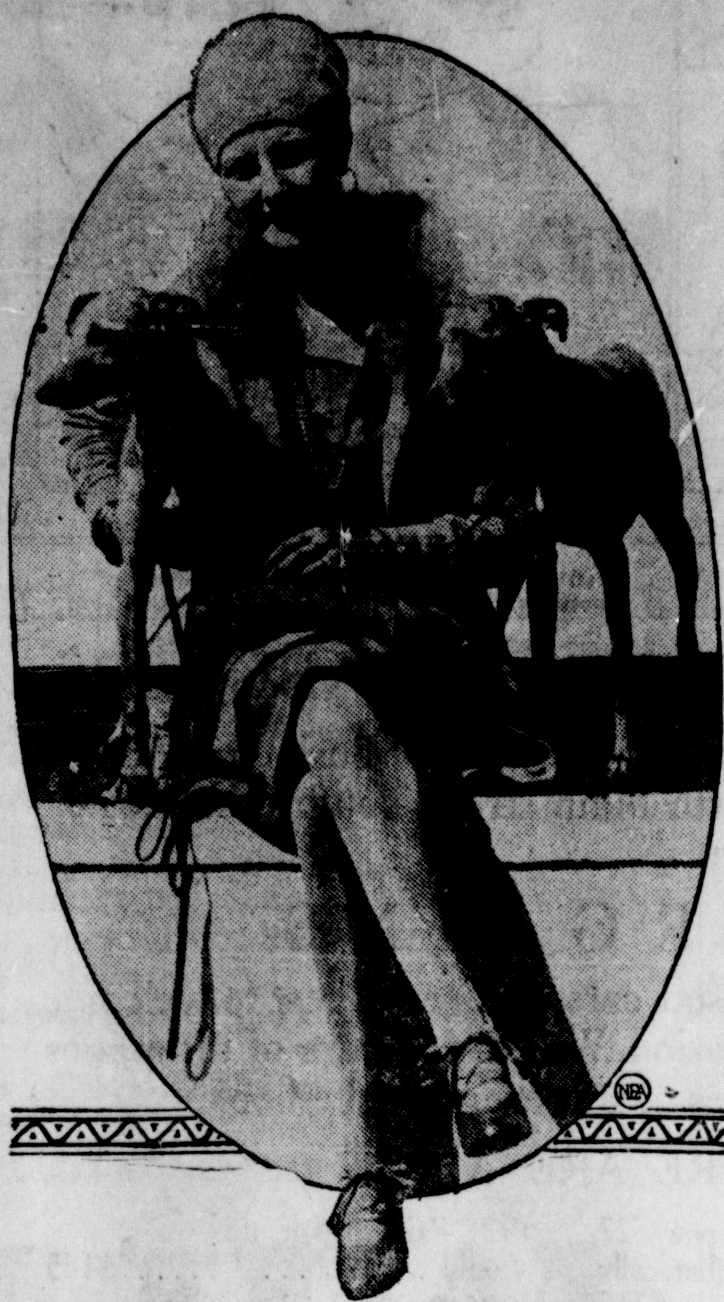

A beautiful pageant by the women of the United Brethren church, "In the Light of the Cross," and emblematic of the Spirit of Christ, completed the program.

Interspersed through the addresses and thoroughly enjoyed was the music. Solos by Miss Alice Folsom and Mr. Ted Bach of Chicago, and a duet by Mrs. Harry Hayes and Mr. James Hughes, were greatly enjoyed.

Officers for the coming year were elected at the close of the meeting and were as follows: Mrs. Moffett Rhodes, president; Mrs. Allen, vice president; Mrs. Archie Gorton, secretary; Mrs. Anna McClurke, treasurer; Mrs. C. S. Durnphy, secretary of literature; Mrs. D. Maynard, press reporter. Resolutions were passed thanking the Presbyterian church women for their beautiful decorations of flowers and for their hospitality, and to the press for generous space given to notices of the meeting.

A noted English scientist who has conducted experiment with colored lights in the cure of disease has found that the three most useful colors are green, blue and orange.

MRS. COOLIDGE IS RIGHT

Jane Kendall, Washington society beauty, has been described by Mrs. Coolidge as "the prettiest girl who ever entered the White House." Must be right! This charming shot of Jane was made upon her return to New York from Paris where she bought a trousseau for her marriage to George Grant Mason, Jr.

SALACIOUS STORIES OPPOSED BY LEAGUE

BALBOA, April 30.—Denouncing the salacious trend of serials and short stories in many of the magazines today, the Civic League of Newport Beach at its business session yesterday went on record as opposing the line of suggestive thought set before the youth of the land.

The league's action will take the form of protests to the publishers, each member pledging himself to write them personally. This decision followed the resolutions passed a few days ago by the Southern District Federation of Women's clubs. The league also sent a letter of protest to Governor Young on signing Assembly bill No. 185, known as the Crippled Children's measure, and Senate Bill No. 630, both of which the league declared were against the "best interests of the people of California."

Reports were received from Mrs. R. H. Summers and Mrs. Sara Bowman, delegates to the convention of Women's clubs held at Anaheim and from Mrs. Beatrice Wittmeir, President of the Parent-Teachers' association on that organization's activities.

H. B. Oil Worker's Condition Better

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 30.—Lewis Schnarr, Huntington Beach oil worker, who recently sustained burns and other injuries when he was hurled 50 feet by an explosion from a Huntington Beach oil tank, this morning was reported to be improved at Community hospital, Long Beach.

Schnarr is said to have lighted a match in order to see how the oil was flowing. The tank was completely demolished by the blast. Schnarr is employed by Beeson and Hoy at Twentieth street and Palm avenue. He is said to be an experienced oil man. The blaze which followed was quenched by the Huntington Beach fire department.

N. T. Edwards and Family to Take New York Trip

ORANGE, April 30.—N. T. Edwards, former state highway commissioner, and Mrs. Edwards, their daughter, Miss Maybelle Edwards; Mrs. W. E. Clement, wife of W. E. Clement, city trustee, and Mrs. Willis Mitchell, of Santa Ana, will leave aboard the S. S. Columbia from San Pedro Monday for New York, via the Panama canal, Havana and Florida.

Upon the arrival of the party in New York, Miss Edwards will embark for Europe. Mrs. Clement and Mrs. Mitchell will arrange a tour to South America. The plans of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were not learned.

FULLERTON MAN HELD

FULLERTON, April 30.—C. L. Wisheart, 23, of Fullerton, was arrested Thursday evening by Traffic Officer Douglas Chambers on charges of reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. Bail was set yesterday afternoon at $1000 by Justice Halsey I. Spence.

How She Hints? Lincolnton Car Care

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

One of the most ticklish problems Major H. O. D. Segrave had to meet, when he drove his thousand-horsepower Sunbeam special at 203 miles an hour over the Daytona beach, was that of steering.

In New York, after his demonstration, he was driven about in a little sedan, which seemed to respond almost instantly to the slightest turn of the wheel.

"It brought to my mind vividly the difference in control at same speeds and the speed at which I had to travel to make a new world's record," he remarked.

"With the throttle wide open, the great Sunbeam was eating up space at 300 feet a second, and a turn of the steering wheel meant nothing.

"This is in great contrast to the instant response of the small car as we drove around the city at ordinary speeds.

"Covering a mile in 17 seconds, as the Sunbeam did, means that the driver must begin to work on his steering wheel at least half a mile before he really wishes a change effected in his car's direction."

The case is cited not to point out the efficiency of the steering system, as it is to emphasize the importance of a sturdy, responsive and well-kept steering system on all cars.

On the steering gear depends the safety of the passengers in the car, for failure to respond immediately to a turn of the wheel might carry the car and its occupants to destruction.

Therefore it is essential that the steering gear be kept tight by frequent inspection and maintenance. It should be solidly anchored to the main frame, the point at which much of the steering strain and shock centers when the front wheels hit obstructions in the road.

There should be the smallest possible play, without causing binding in any position. With all play taken out when the wheels are directed straight ahead, the steering should be perfectly free to the extreme right and left.

What hurts the steering system, even more than striking ruts and other obstructions in the road, is trying to twist the wheels while the car is standing still. That puts the entire opposition of the car's inertia against the comparatively frail steering gear. It is especially harmful with balloon tires on the wheels.

It requires quick manipulation, especially in parking within a small space, to turn the wheels back and forth while the car is moving, but that is the only way to do so without harming the steering system.

It can be done, however, by easy stages and deliberate motions.

REO FLYING CLOUD

in cooperation with Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce

Visits 10 Southern California Counties in Less than One Day!

HERE is a test of car stamina that means something.

Some of the conditions which this Reo Flying Cloud encountered are found only in Southern California; some of them are national in aspect; but none of them are found anywhere except on the public highways, where the twenty-two million automobiles owned in America are used.

Mountains towering a mile high; sinks lying 200 feet below sea level; paved ribbons stretching smoothly across fertile valleys; mile after mile of sagebrush, cactus and chuckholes; thick fog one hour and the bite of a desert sandstorm the next; teeming traffic of ten county seats; bridges out; roads under construction; detours; boulevard stops—

And a route 959.5 miles long under these conditions conquered by a strictly stock Reo Flying Cloud Brougham in 20 hours and 58 minutes... Western Union timed.

Here is an automobile that is not only the longest lasting American car, but one that will get out and perform miraculously. By all means drive one of these new Reos... today if possible. A phone call will bring one to your door.

WORKING FOLK ARE URGED TO OBSERVE WEEK

By B. E. SWITZLER
Chairman, Industrial Division Music Week Committee

There has been much said about the efforts of music on people as well as animals, but the writer believes that the hardest heart may be softened by the right kind of music, whether it is instrumental or vocal music.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, says that "music is a friend to labor for it lightens the task by refreshing the nerves and spirit of the worker. It tends to make work pleasurable as well as profitable and adds to the enjoyment of leisure time."

The purpose of National Music Week, beginning the first Sunday in May, is indicated by its slogan, "Give More Thought to Music."

Music not only helps the employee of an industry but it also helps the employer. We might sum up the value of music in industry from the viewpoint of the employer, in that it increases production, enlarges the zone of agreement upon which employer and employee can negotiate and incidentally cuts down labor turnover.

To sum up the value of music from the viewpoint of the employee, we might add that it breaks the monotony of the working day, brings relaxation, refreshing restoration to the body and nerves, as well as pleasure and enjoyment. Music also encourages a greater social interest among people and chance for the expression of individual talent.

It has been the experience of the writer to have worked within a few feet of people and yet the majority of these people never became personally acquainted until some music enthusiast got the group together and conducted community singing. This brought out the hidden talent and incidentally drew these people together in one common interest.

I do not know of any one thing as a greater harmonizer among contented individuals. While on the other hand, one who goes about their daily work singing or whistling and I will show you a happy contented individual. While on the other hand, one who goes about his or her work silently, failing to catch the music in the air, or the beauty of nature and I will show you an individual who is not getting the full enjoyment and pleasure out of life.

One of the first thinkers to estimate the importance of music in industry was Thomas Carlyle, who declared: "Give us, O give us, the man who sings at his work. He will do more in the same time, he will do it better, he will persevere longer."

Many of our organizations in Santa Ana conduct community singing and from all reports, the individuals taking part in the singing start off the work-a-day with a light cheery heart.

In closing, the writer urges the people of Santa Ana to observe National Music Week from May 1 to 8, inclusive, and attend as many of the concerts at the high school as they possibly can. Community singing will be held at the Rankin Dry Goods company Tuesday, promptly at noon, the First National Bank Wednesday at noon, Blauer's Thursday noon and the J. C. Horton Furniture company Friday at noon. On Monday there will be instrumental music in the Shafter Music store and Saturday noon instrumental music at Van Antwerp's.

The writer, who is chairman of industrial community singing for National Music Week, urges as many male and female voices as possible to join in this noon-day community singing.

FUND FOR POOR KIDDIES
NEW YORK, April 30.—The fortune of a granddaughter of the late E. H. Harriman, railroad magnate, is to add poor children of the east side. An endowment fund of $100,000 for Carol Smith was established at birth by her parents and Mrs. Harriman. The child died recently at the age of eight. Richard Penn Smith and Mrs. Smith (Carol Averill Harriman) asked the Lenox Hill Neighborhood association to accept the gift as from the child herself. Much of the fund will be used for a recreation center.

Superintendent of Schools Lauds Purpose of Week

By J. A. CRANSTON
Superintendent of Schools City of Santa Ana

Many thousands of dollars are spent annually on music in the United States. This fact alone illustrates the love and high esteem which music has won in the hearts of people over the country.

Music is one of the most valuable and elevating forms of recreation. High ideals of patriotism and comradeship; love of nature and home; and appreciation of the beautiful can be taught by means of well chosen music.

Any boy or girl who is interested in music is apt to spend time on his music at home; or, when he is practically outside his home he is apt to be in good society. In this day, when there is so much temptation this means much to an anxious parent.

In national and community life, and given joy to the individual.

Music week will give Santa Ana a succession of splendid musical entertainments during the week, and will also aid in developing a musical taste and appreciation. It will lay the foundation of continued musical activities and interests.

The club has as its objective the promoting of the highest standard of good music in Santa Ana and Orange county, more particularly the music written and arranged for men's voices. There is probably no class of music which is more pleasing to the great majority of people than the well-balanced harmony of male voices, be it four or 40 in number, and the Cantando club of not less than 50 of the best voices in the community has rapidly progressed towards a point of perfection, during the past three months, which is usually attained only through years of experience and practice.

This fact may be credited to the directorship of Mr. Eckels, the perfection of accompaniment by Miss Armstrong and the individual voice and experience of each member of the club, all of whom have been carefully selected.

The Cantando club has already taken first place in the Orange County Eisteddfod association contest and will sing in the finals of the Southern California association at Los Angeles some time during May. It will be heard on a program with the Santa Ana Municipal band in the high school auditorium on the evening of May 3, in two numbers, "To Arms! To Arms!" (Maunders) and "Morning" (Speaks).

On the evening of May 6, it will similarly assist the Huntington Beach band in that city in their observance of music week and on May 24 will sing its first formal public concert in Santa Ana at which time it will be assisted by Miss Virginia Flohri.

TELLS AIM OF MUSIC WEEK CELEBRATIONS
By RUTH ANDREWS
Secretary, Music Week Committee

This national celebration of music week, to which our town is endeavoring to freely give of its best talent, to me means opportunity—a glorious opportunity to bring to our own people a message of sweetness; a golden opportunity to spread the goal of beauty and aid in developing a love of the finer worthwhile things which make for real progress in life.

In this united effort of various organizations and individuals to bring music into the lives of everyone during this important week now just beginning, there is a real fellowship and spirit of unselfishness that must surely make for true progress for everyone.

"Music for everyone—everyone for music"—the slogan adopted by the National Music Week committee, briefly expresses the foremost idea back of this comparatively new movement to make possible for everyone, regardless of creed, color or social station.

Through development of keen musical appreciation, refinement and love of beauty and art are cultivated unconsciously. Upon these qualities true culture must be based, in order to be lasting. Sincere love and appreciation for good music is something we may all possess, even though the heaven-sent gift for expressing oneself in a musical way may belong only to a talented few.

Luther Burbank used to say that music was fundamental—one of the great sources of life, health, strength and happiness. Surely everyone must acknowledge the healing and soothing effect of music upon hearts torn with grief and disappointment. In its sweet message of comfort, many a weary heart finds encouragement and inspiration, and under the magic spell of melody and swinging rhythm, the monotony and little grating annoyances of every-day life may be brushed aside and forgotten.

Good music will always furnish a most wholesome form of relaxation and healthful enjoyment. This is certainly needed universally during these modern days of hurry and strain, when the desire for constant sensation leaves its mark upon the most self-controlled. Love of pleasure and amusement is fundamental and instinctive in every heart, and will continue to be so, no matter what other changes progress brings.

As a means of self-expression, music holds first place among the arts. It furnishes a safety valve for the repressed emotions that sear the inner fibres of the spirit, transmuting into beauty and harmony the hidden longings and aspirations

MAYOR CALLS UPON ALL CITIZENS TO GET INTO SPIRIT OF NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK

To the Citizens of the City of Santa Ana:

As mayor of the city of Santa Ana, I am, indeed, glad to set apart the first week in May for the celebration here for National Music Week. I call upon all citizens to enter into the spirit of the week and to attend the musical programs to be given each night of the week, beginning Monday evening, at the high school auditorium.

Educational campaigns fostered by the various musical organizations of the country have been instituted to give the youth of the nation a better understanding and knowledge of good music and its influence.

It is being more and more recognized that good music, the music interpreted by the great composers, helps to tone up the quality of nations. For that reason, this feature is becoming more and more a part of the school curriculums and the children are placed in a familiar touch with the works of the great masters.

America has been called the "nation of jazz," but it is slowly and surely breaking away from that class to the nobler one of a nation of stability.

A further proof of this is the number of American artists who are gaining recognition. There was a time, and not far distant, when in order for an American to gain recognition as a musician he or she must get a reputation abroad. But in the new order of things, this is being overcome, and Americans are recognized for their individual worth.

Santa Ana with its various musical organizations, bringing each year the best in music, is taking its place among the progressive cities of the nation in its recognition of the higher things. It is good for the city; it is good for the nation and with National Music Week becoming the institution that it is, the United States cannot help but be a better place in which to live and bring up the young.—Frank Purinton, mayor of Santa Ana.

BIG INFLUENCE OF MUSIC SEEN OVER COUNTRY

Director of Municipal Band Sees Day When United States Will Lead World

By D. C. GIANFONI
Director Santa Ana Municipal Band and Santa Ana Symphony Orchestra

What Music Week can mean to America! Any form of culture enriching the life of the individual with beauty and refinement, leaves its far-reaching effect upon the nation as a whole. No civilization can exist or advance without music, the universal heritage.

Not only is music of vital influence in the educational life of the general public, but by stimulating nation-wide interest in this form of the arts, we may make for musical advancement unequalled elsewhere. When one considers the remarkable growth and development of musical organizations here in America during recent years, and takes into consideration the comparative youth of our country, in contrast with the old world, where music has long been a part of national life, it is safe to predict that in a few years America can lead the world in a musical way—if she so desires.

Let us consider briefly the musical changes which have taken place in the United States during the past few years. Only 20 years ago music played but a small part in community life. In fact, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Boston Symphony orchestra, New York Philharmonic orchestra, Minneapolis and several others were the only ones in existence. Band organizations were composed mainly of foreigners, travelling from place to place. Grand opera was enjoyed only by the select few in New York city. As a community asset, music was in its crude beginnings.

Contrast this situation with present day conditions. Today any community of average size has a symphony orchestra and better municipal bands. All large cities now have their own opera companies. Progressive people now appreciate the value of well-trained musical organizations as a spur to civic progress. Consider the influence of music in the rapid development of near-by towns. Los Angeles is famous for its Philharmonic orchestra. Interest in music has aided greatly in developing the city of Long Beach to its present size, and standard of culture.

In Santa Ana itself, the development of our musical taste and appreciation has been plainly shown in the interest and support given by the community as a whole during the series of symphony concerts held in the various churches last year, and this year's series held at Ebell Club. The approval of the general public was heartily voiced last summer at the time of election, when Santa Ana voted for the establishment of the present municipal band, and the keen and widespread interest and enjoyment shown during the summer concert, offered by the band was very gratifying, and gives promise of a far greater success this coming season. The publicity gained through such accomplishment is bound to react beneficially for the good of our city, and aid in establishing high standards of civic progress.

The progress made in educational circles has kept pace with the advance of musical interest in other phases of community life. The school system has been helped and broadened to a marked degree by the development of music in the schools of the nation. Several years ago, our schools could not boast of a music department. At the present time, the influence of music in the lives of our hundreds of thousands of pupils throughout the United States is very marked. Glee clubs, orchestras, various school musical organizations, bring together the unfolding talents of eager youth, weakening hidden sparks of genius, binding together young lives in ties of companionship and high social ideals. Wherever the spell of music holds sway, it yields a softening and refining influence. One cannot imagine a complete, well-rounded education without music.

Much credit is due the National Music Week committee of New York for its untiring efforts to make the celebration of Music Week throughout America a huge success. It is the heartfelt desire of all who are co-operating in this national

PUBLIC ASKED TO HELP MUSIC WEEK WORKERS

By HARRY HANSON
General Chairman Santa Ana Music Week Committee

It is well that this great nation of ours should designate and set aside an annual event to be known as "National Music Week," for while we have been world leaders in many things, both ideal and economic, we have with the exception of a comparatively few individuals and communities been far behind in the fine arts.

We do not stop to realize that probably there is no universal language equal to that of music, for we may be strangers in a foreign country, but in spite of these cosmopolitan conditions, every one conversant with music, even to a limited degree, is swayed with a union of feeling and understanding. When we realize that a musical composition written in America may be sent to every country of Europe and any musician in any of those countries can play from some without any alterations whatsoever; just think what an influence and power music is. Music has its influence in whatever walk of life we come in contact with.

It therefore behooves a nation, and likewise every community, to develop the highest type of musical organizations, and also educate the listening public to demanding the best in music.

We are most fortunate in our own country in having more than our share of musicians and musical leaders, so that it has been possible with careful thought and arrangement on the part of the National Music Week committee, appointed by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, to build up and present to the public during National Music Week a high class and varied program that we feel will equal that of any given anywhere.

Musicians and speakers have volunteered most cordially to make this wonderful week of music possible, so it's up to the general public, not only to take advantage of this treat, but to show their support by filling the High School auditorium every night.

The musicians are doing their part. Will you do yours? Let's go!

Let us have a complete, well-rounded movement, that the influence of Music Week be vividly felt and long remembered in every social circle of family and community life. Our ambition is that America may go "ambition to her destiny"—free and inspired with a divine sense of her place to fill in the march of progress and culture!

NOTED SOPRANO WILL SING WITH SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Miss Virginia Flohri, of Los Angeles, who will sing with the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra on the Monday evening concert of music week at the high school auditorium, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

PUBLIC ASKED TO HELP MUSIC WEEK WORKERS

Residents of Orange county will be interested to learn that Virginia Flohri is to be the soprano with the Santa Ana Symphony on May 2, during music week. While Miss Flohri's voice is well known through the medium of the radio, many will have their first opportunity of seeing and actually hearing at first hand a famous radio star.

Miss Flohri associated herself with KFI soon after that station went on the air a little over five years ago, and has been one of the outstanding artists ever since. She possesses a coloratura voice which combines the qualities adapted to both concert and radio interpretations. This is a rare combination for it is a well known fact that many great concert singers are only mediocre on radio, and on the other hand many good radio voices lose much in the concert hall or on the stage.

All who have heard Miss Flohri from KFI know that her voice is one of the few soprano voices which registers well on the microphone. And that she is equally at home in the concert hall is attested by the fact that she is in constant demand for various stage and concert work. Most noteworthy of her personal appearances were her programs with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra. She appeared as soloist in one of the Philharmonic concerts during the season of 1925-26, and twice during the present season, her last concert being on April 23.

On May 2, she has chosen to sing two famous operatic arias, the Polonaise from "Mignon" by Thomas, and the "Jewel Song" from Gounod's opera "Faust." Both of these selections are at once extremely difficult, and richly melodic, and call forth all the artistry and technique of the singer.

Mrs. Beeson Urges Families to Have Musical Programs

By FRANCES HUNT BEESON
Director of Music, Santa Ana Public Schools

The great central thought of National Music Week is that everyone can participate, whether it be to sing or play some instrument, to attend a concert or to enjoy music over the radio or phonograph.

"Music is God's best gift to man, the only art of heaven given to earth. But, music, like all our gifts, is given us in the germ. It is for us to unfold and develop it by instruction and cultivation."

Music Week will be an appropriate time for each family group to have a musical hour in the home. The family would enjoy singing together and utilizing the musical talents of the different members. These might be supplemented by mechanical instruments.

common to all mankind. Vividly it portrays the universal striving of humanity toward the ideal. "It is the common tie between races and nationalities, recognizing no caste." Even primitive savages find instinctive satisfaction through their crude attempts at musical expression. In the folk songs of different nations, the instrument hearts and characteristics of the people are laid bare. Their smoldering desires and ambitions have torn their way to the surface, finding outlet in spontaneous melody and rhythm, with a charm ever new.

In the lives of those where music already stands enthroned as a priceless and never-failing source of enjoyment, this celebration of Music Week will but deepen the love and appreciation already theirs. In other lives not so fortunate, but equally thirst for those things which make for real happiness, perhaps this week may bring a message of beauty and cheer. To them, especially, we dedicate what small service and co-operation we may have given to make this event a real success and inspiration to all.

INSTALLMENT PLAN IS WARNED AGAINST

LONDON, April 30.—A warning against the growing habit of purchasing luxuries on the hire system was sounded by Kenneth Goschen, presiding at a meeting of the Bank of Australasia.

He said when the sale of installment plan provides for essential needs as the purchase of house property or the purchase of furniture, it has some justification, but in the purchase of luxuries the property has generally depreciated at least 50 per cent by the time it becomes the purchaser's own and in nine cases out of 10 it has led to expenditure which would otherwise have been curtailed or not undertaken.

"This growing habit of purchasing on the hire system may become a menace and if persisted in, will, in my opinion accentuate periods of depression and delay recovery. Indeed in a country like Australia, where the failure of a harvest has such far-reaching effects, it may lead to something like disaster."

Cow Path Built In Skyscraper Above Chicago

CHICAGO, April 30.—Many modern skyscrapers make use of the setback, giving the upper floors a pyramidal appearance, but one Chicago building has reversed the process—all on account of a cow. A 22 story office building has just been completed at Clark and Monroe streets in the heart of the loop, with the 21 upper stories extending westward ten feet farther than the ground floor. Students of real estate learned that the cantilever construction had a bovine history.

The utilization of air rights for the first time in Chicago, it was explained was due to a stipulation in an old deed providing for a ten-foot easement along the west end of what was part of the cow pasture of Dr. Bassett, a pioneer Chicagoan. He had sold the central part of the pasture and desired a means of bringing his milk cow from the pasture to the barn at the rear of his home, just north of the plot that he disposed of.

Movie Chatterbox

BY DAN THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — There have been numerous inquiries why our government is so willing to loan its army, navy and marines for motion pictures when that time might be spent in training the men in war tactics.

When Richard Barthelmess embarked for "location" at Camp Lewis (Wash.) recently, I asked him to get an answer to that question for me. A letter giving the information that Dick secured from Major John McDonnell just arrived.

There is one outstanding reason why the government lends its fighting forces, according to Major McDonnell. The government wants to acquaint the people with the problems the army and navy face in raising trained forces. Through the medium of war pictures the public can be made to realize the various phases of intensive training a man must go through before he is a finished service man.

The war pictures show how an untrained man is very likely to do the wrong thing under the stress of battle. It is necessary that the public, which supports the army and navy, understand that a man must go through before he becomes a good soldier. Motion pictures are the best method of bringing this to their attention.

Another reason is that the War Department is anxious to have everything pertaining to the army absolutely correct. The only way this can be assured is to have the maneuvers actually carried out by the army.

Most persons in Hollywood are what we call "publicity dragons." Everything they do is publicized by well paid press agents. A perfect example of that condition was revealed recently in the engagement of Rod LaRocque and Vilma Banky. A Los Angeles newspaper "broke" the story before their announcement had been made public. That same day written denials of an engagement were sent to all Los Angeles papers by LaRocque and Miss Banky. Two days later a party was held and their engagement was officially announced to the press "for all the papers."

Cantando Club Director Lauds Purpose of Week

By LEON ECKLES
Director, Cantando Club
And now we have National Music Week. This, together with Raisin Week, Prune Week, Thrift Week, Better Babies Week, and all the others make something over a hundred weeks in our present calendar, to say nothing of the special national days. And like most or perhaps all of the others, National Music Week is essentially an advertising effort.

However, something may be said for Music Week that perhaps may not be said for the other national weeks. During the first week in May serious musicians throughout the country will give of their time and talent for the entertainment and education of the public. This for no purpose other than to present good music in an acceptable manner in the hope that the cause of good music may gain a few converts.

Advertising at its best is education. Industry, by means of advertising, seeks to create in the public mind a better sense of values. So if musicians can in this way cause more people to enjoy music, and to be more discriminating in their musical pleasures, it will have achieved its purpose.

EUROPE WILL SOON TELEGRAPH POSIES

BERLIN, April 30.—While statesmen of western Europe are perfecting bonds of peace and taking further steps for the prevention of war, florists have taken up the peace spirit for the promotion of the American "Say-it-with-flowers" idea.

Retailers of more than a dozen nations have signed an agreement for the sending of flowers by telegraph from one to another of several hundred cities, a plan which is conceded would have been unworkable before the war.

The European Florists' association has established central offices in Berlin.

Many Dangers In London Shopping

LONDON, April 30.—Shopping in London for American women visitors is a never ending adventure, fraught with dangers and difficulties, and filled with delightful possibilities.

The sources of difficulty are various. On entering an English "dry goods store" the fair American finds that goods displayed on tables and shelves are much more numerous than those on view in an American store of similar size, and this at first gives an idea of confusion.

It is sincerely hoped that the reaction of the people of Santa Ana to these offerings of the club will indicate a popular desire for the continuation of this organization so that it may be encouraged to go into next season with a schedule of three, or perhaps four, high class programs, for the purpose of emphasizing the fact that Santa Ana is the home of good music.

MEXICANS WILL PROVIDE MUSIC WEEK PROGRAM

BY SOL GONZALES
Member Music Week Committee

Mexico, the land of beautiful skies, of palm trees, liquid amber, passion flowers, orchids, magnolias and oleanders; the land where exotic flowers bloom in wild profusion, is a cradle of musical people. It is a native aphorism that, "Music is the natural expression of the Mexican soul," and woven into their music is a picture of dark eyed senoritas—languidly waving their fans—dashing caballeros, the sound of castanets, the tinkling of strings and the charm of song.

The love of music, inherent in the Mexican, dates back to the shadowy days when the Spanish came and found a people among whom the song and dance were in vogue. It has been said that their themes bear a striking resemblance to those of Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, and especially Wagner. The influence of the Spanish left its impress on nearly all modern Mexican music, of which perhaps the purest example is "La Golan-drina"—"The Swallow"—this has been called the "Home, Sweet Home" of Mexico, by reason of its pathetic theme and beautiful melody.

Their musical taste has been educated to a much higher degree than in our own United States; every pueblo throughout the republic has a band, and even the humblest attendant at the plaza concerts listens in rapt attention.

The capital of Mexico is a mecca for world artists, called there for engagements in the all-year 'round operas. The National theater, unequalled by any building of its kind, the Conservatory of Music, sponsoring scholarships abroad, the Academies, combine to make it a music center of great importance.

Is it any wonder, with such a that the Mexican people, from the nobleman to the humblest artisan, love and radiate music, and are such severe critics they are the dread of high-class artists.

Friday evening of "music week" will be devoted to "All-Mexican" music, when a group of these artists will offer a diversified program of modern Mexican music including orchestral music, singing and dancing with Miss Ruth Frothingham assisting at the piano. We bespeak for them a crowded house and enthusiastic reception.

The Ramirez orchestra, a product of the school of Americanization, conducted by Mr. Ramirez, maestro of the cornet, will be one of the outstanding features in an ensemble of trombone, saxophone, flute, violin, cello and drums. An equally interesting feature will be the Diaz quintette, which always delights with its pleasing combination of mandolin, guitar and violin. They will interpret the "Musica Tipica" of Mexico, which is composed entirely of strings. The Gonzales trio, still another feature, never fails to win the unstinted applause of the people; the violin and cello, so admirably adapted to the dreamy music of the serenade and melting overtures, envisions windows framing red-lipped maidens which gay-sashed gallant youths in the shadowy light underneath your out love sonatas to the flashing of bows and melting music of strings.

Mr. Delgado, whose artistic and magnetic baritone is never so pleasing as in the rendering of Mexican songs, will offer a group. His charming accent and clear enunciation captivates an audience and piles up laurels for himself. Miss Hortense Daniels, who is blocking out a musical career on the stage, will also add a brilliant note. The possessor of a charming soprano voice and bewitching manner she sings with all the fascination of her race. Senor Eduardo Giron, who has attracted much attention and is highly praised—a stranger to Santa Ana audiences—will present a trio of piano solos.

No program of Mexican music could be complete unless embellished by the grace and rhythm of the terpsichorean art. Miss Lucero and Miss De To dance their way into the hearts of the people, glittering in sequins and jewels, arresting in their movements, exquisitely executing, the epitome of poetry and grace—we lose ourselves in hyperbole—it would be difficult to determine whether their duo or solo numbers are the more popular. On this occasion one of Miss Lucero's little pupils will make her debut.

Accentuating the charm of this production, all the artists will wear native costumes; the ushers will also dress in costumes, and every attempt will be made to create a Mexican atmosphere for the evening's entertainment.

EXPECTS SCOLDING

NEW YORK, April 30.—Brandon Tynan, president of the Catholic Actors guild, expects that Cardinal Hayes will scold members in an address next month. He revealed this in a speech to Catholic sodalities, explaining his view that an actor's duty is to play a part, just like the lawyer's duty is to defend a case, and that the worse a play is the more women try to see it; for instance, girls fought one another recently in an effort to see a play recently withdrawn.

DENIES ALTAR BID

NEW YORK, April 30.—As the girl's attorney puts it, this is not a case of Abbe's Irish rose, but Izzy's heather. Israel Fein, young violinist, is suing Mary McCausland, also a violinist, for $25,000 for breach of promise. He insists that she proposed. She rises to remark that if she ever marries she doesn't think she will have to do the proposing. She is Scotch.

Eyes can now be examined so minutely by a new appliance that even the corpuscles circulating in the blood-vessels are visible.

Berth No. 13 Is Being Eliminated

LONDON, April 30.—There will be no No. 13 berths on London and Northeastern railway sleeping cars hereafter. All the rooms bearing that unlucky number will be 14A in the future. Painters are at work doing the numbers over. Passengers did not like No. 13.

WRIST WATCHES CUT THEATER APPLAUSE

LONDON, April 30.—The habit of wearing wrist watches is responsible for a considerable decrease in applause at London theaters and music halls.

Leading actors and music hall artists have for some time been wondering why hand clapping has subsided to such an extent, while jokes are laughed at just as uproariously as ever.

Watchmakers have discovered hand clapping puts wrist watches out of order, and their advice is responsible for the decrease in applause. Theater patrons now laugh and stamp when wishing to show approval.

Billy Evans Says

MARY BROWNE'S STATUS
Mary K. Browne can regain her amateur standing as a golfer if she is a very good girl for the next two years.

In brief, that is the latest ultimatum of the United States Golf association. It is very possible that the bars may be raised on Miss Browne prior to that time, if she behaves.

A perusal of the decision reveals that the committee handling the case has carefully avoided reference to the word "professional." The text of the ruling was that Miss Browne was ineligible to compete in tournaments under the jurisdiction of the U.S.G.A.

Had Miss Browne been declared an out-and-out pro, she would have been definitely barred from the golf picture for at least three years.

The wording of the Browne decision leaves an opening for her earlier reinstatement, provided she makes the committee realize she is sincere in wishing to regain her amateur standing.

Since the Western Golf association has not put the bars up on Miss Browne as an amateur, she will still have many opportunities to play in major golf tournaments.

TWO SIMILAR CASES

In some ways the cases of Francis Ouimet and George Von Elm are somewhat similar to the action taken in Mary K. Browne's pro charges.

It will be recalled that these two amateur stars were temporarily placed under the ban of the United States Golf association, because of their connection with certain sporting goods houses.

The golf association held that Ouimet and Von Elm were simply capitalizing their amateur golf prestige as a medium for putting over the sale of golf supplies.

In each case, the decision was decidedly unpopular as both Ouimet and Von Elm have a big following in the golfing game and are players of the highest type.

On withdrawing from the sporting goods houses and making a second application for reinstatement, both Ouimet and Von Elm were restored to good standing.

WHAT OUIMET THINKS

It was a rather strange coincidence that on the very day the decision was made in Miss Browne's case, I bumped into Francis Ouimet in Boston and had a chat with him.

When I asked him what he thought of the Browne decision, with proper deference to the United States Golf association, he replied:

"I have no desire to take issue with the governing body in golf but to Miss Browne I extend my sincere sympathy."

"I have been through a similar affair and realize that she must be greatly disappointed. I certainly was when temporarily barred from the game."

"It is a difficult matter to define an amateur in sports. Playing for pay is regarded as the shortest and best definition for a professional."

"True, Miss Browne did receive pay as a tennis player, but Arnold Stange and Ross Youngs, big league ball players, who get plenty of pay for their work, are permitted to retain their amateur standings as golfers."

Undoubtedly it is necessary to draw a line of demarcation but it seems the golf body has been very inconsistent in its rulings as to what really makes one a professional in sports.

O'Dowd Gets Nod Over 'Bad News'

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—"Midnight" Mike O'Dowd, Chicago bantamweight, today was surveying the field for new rivals, having eliminated "Bad News" Eber by a decision at Hollywood stadium last night.

O'Dowd carried the fight throughout, with Eber, who appeared out of condition, showing best in the fifth and tenth rounds.

Neither battler appeared willing to forsake caution until the ninth frame when the shouts of the fans for action were answered by a lively flurry that continued up to the final bell.

LOCAL COLLEGE DROPS LENGTHY BALL GAME, 8-7

Although three games remain for Santa Ana junior college ball team before the Southern California conference title is decided, chances for the Dons to be serious contenders for the pennant suffered a severe set-back when San Bernardino won an 8 to 7 victory over Coach Graham Harris' team in a thrilling 12-inning game played at Poly park yesterday afternoon.

Up to the ninth inning, Santa Ana lead in the scoring. It looked as if the collegians were going to repeat their win of last week. At the critical time, however, the breaks came at the bidding of the visiting players. A couple of mis-plays by the Don infield together with a hit kicked off Milton Chaffee, speed ball twirler for the Santa Ana team, and the visitors scored three, putting them one ahead of Santa Ana.

The Dons had last bats in the ninth inning and a run made by Fred McMillan knotted the score, 7 to 7.

Then for three innings, the teams wrangled for the score that would mean victory. Murphy, San Bernardino pinch hitter, finally completing the circuit.

During the second, third and fourth innings, Santa Ana pushed in the runs that gave it the lead, scoring two in each spasm. The hitting of Manley Knight and Ralph Rozelle were important factors in the calculations.

Despite the fact that the Dons lost, they played the best ball that they have displayed so far this season. The players hit opportu- nity, fielded well but for the disastrous ninth inning and played heady ball for the most part.

E. T. Mater, the golfing druggist, and Eddie Holmes, who sells insurance with a smile, went through the last stages of their training today for their 18-hole match at the Santa Ana Country club tomorrow that will settle the President's Cup tournament.

Mater, using a set of brand new sticks, entered the final round last week when he defeated Hugh Smith.

Holmes became a finalist by defeating N. W. Clark.

RICKARD BUSY PREPARING FOR FISTIC SEASON

NEW YORK, April 30.—Before the end of next week, Tex Rickard said today, he hopes to have signatures to contracts promising a summer of almost unprecedented activity among the nation's heavyweight fighters.

Plans of the promoter are contingent on Jack Dempsey's return to the ring in the proposed bout with Paulino, the wild swinging tree chopper.

Jack Rickard seldom makes waste motions in the line of fight promotion and his announced intentions to go after other contracts indicates he believes Dempsey will re-enter the ring.

Rickard will undertake to sign Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney, who will fight at the Yankee stadium May 19, to agree to meet the winner of a Dempsey-Paulino battle.

He already has contracts with both fighters, so far as their services for this year are concerned, but he wants them under iron clad, specific agreements.

Rickard has shown he means business in regard to another heavyweight championship bout late in the summer. He and Gene Tunney went to a trust company yesterday and posted the second $100,000 of the $200,000 forfeit under the terms of the contract he signed with Tunney at St. Louis.

Tunney then left for Saratoga lake to indulge in some limbering up exercises.

MISS PATTON LOSES IN TOURNEY AT OJAI

Miss Thelma Patton, Santa Ana's representative in the women's singles in the annual Ojai tennis tournament was eliminated in the second round yesterday, succumbing, 6-2, 7-5, to Miss Elizabeth Delke.

Al Huneke, of Santa Ana, playing unattached, also was eliminated in the men's singles. He was defeated by Lionel Ogden, Stanford university, 7-5, 6-2.

Members of the Frances E. Willard junior high school team were to play in the grammar school division today.

Cobb, Wheat Are With Philadelphia; Hornsby, Roush With New York Giants; Heilmann and Manush Teamed With Detroit Tigers

It is the unusual for a ball club to boast one batting champion, a decided rarity to have two such athletes in the lineup.

Yet due to the many recent shifts in baseball, there are three major league ball clubs able to present a pair of batting champions as part of their bid for patronage.

Something like 40 major league ball players are seeing new scenery this spring as a result of the wholesale trades and sales of last winter. These many changes have brought about a lot of strange and unusual conditions.

1918 Leaders Mates Now
Take the Philadelphia Athletics as example number one. Ten years ago, no one would have thought that Zach Wheat, star of the Brooklyn club and batting champion of the National league that season, would be sharing the outfield job on the Athletics with Ty Cobb of Detroit, who like him was batting champion of the American league in 1918.

Not only did Cobb lead the American league in 1918 as did Wheat the National that year, but he also has 11 other batting titles to his credit, nine of them over consecutive years.

The New York Giants are offered as Exhibit No. 2, of the many as well as startling changes in baseball since the close of the season of 1926.

Hornsby, Roush With N. Y.
In an effort of win another pennant for New York, Manager John McGraw has in his lineup two of the greatest batters in the history of the National league, Rogers Hornsby and Edd Roush.

As a member of the Cincinnati Reds, Roush carried off the swat honors in the National league in 1917 and 1918. Hornsby took up the job where Roush left off.

CARDS RECEIVE APOLOGY
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 30.—Dr. I. A. Storey, head of Stanford athletics, today was in possession of an apology from the University of Southern California for certain unorthodox behavior in the recent Stanford-U. S. C. track meet.

Garland Buckeye, husky southpaw of the Cleveland Indians, was pounded for 10 hits in 7 innings and Detroit took the second straight game from the Giants in their victory.

"Dutch" Reuther and Babe Ruth of the Yankees, beat the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 6. Reuther allowed but six hits, while Ruth pounded out his fourth home run of the year.

Other games scheduled were postponed on account of rain.

Even though the New York Giants were charged with six errors, the

POLY RUNNERS, JUMPERS LEAVE FOR BIG MEET

Days of miracles are over but Santa Ana high school's little band of eight track and field athletes was hoping for another one to happen this afternoon when it left here shortly before noon for the Los Angeles Coliseum to carry this city's colors into the annual Southern California Interscholastic championships.

Coach "Tex" Oliver, Poly's young tutorial genius, wasn't kidding himself about beating out Glendale for the crown but he set 15 points as the goal he wanted his squad to attain and if his men did that well they would do better than any other team in local history.

Oliver hoped for Harvey Bear, the mighty man of the marks, to leg home a winner in the 220-yard dash and for Harold Breeding, his great leather-lunger, to show his spikes to the greatest of prep milers in Southland history. This would net Santa Ana 10 digits and Oliver figured his relay quartette of Fairchild, Blakeney, Stephenson and Bear; John Moffatt in the high hurdles; and Ernie Velarde in the broad jump to account for approximately five points.

Breeding was reported to be in good condition again after his recent sunstroke and determined to shake off the jinx that has stuck with him every time he has hooked up with young Don Hall, the Long Beach sophomore sensation.

The Southern California mile record for preps is 4 minutes, 29 3-5 seconds and Breeding was favored to lower this, if he was in shape to win. The race, however, was considered an open one between Breeding, Hall, Storms, of Hollywood, and Martinez of Chino, with Callahan of Manual Arts the "dark horse."

Expect 10,000 At Fresno Relay Meet

FRESNO STATE COLLEGE STADIUM, FRESNO, Cal., April 30.—Revising the ancient custom of the Romans who celebrated their holidays with foot races and feats of strength, approximately 10,000 persons witnessed the inaugural running of the West Coast Relay, the feature of the Raisin Day festival, here today.

Stanford university's team, which has defeated California and University of Southern California in dual meets this year, was a slight favorite before the meet started.

TROJAN FROSH TRACKSTERS TO OPPOSE LOCALS

County A. A. U. Cinderpath Classic Will Be Staged On Following Saturday

Two more big track and field events will be held on the Poly oval before the Santa Ana high school and junior college seasons are brought to a close.

Next Saturday, the aggregation of freshmen stars of the University of Southern California will be matched against the combined Santa Ana high school and junior college cinderpath performers, through arrangements made today by Coach Graham Harris, Santa Ana junior college mntor.

Coach Dean Cromwell, of U. S. C., will bring his yearlings here for the track fest. He boasts some of the finest young athletes in the Southland, Jim Stewart and Jimmy Payne being the headliners. Stewart hails from Texas and won the discus throw at the National Interscholastic meet in Chicago last year. He also is a strong broad jumper and shot putter.

Payne is a San Bernardino boy and established a new world prep school record for the 220 yard hurdles at the Southern California meet at the Coliseum last April.

Last year the Trojan babes clashed with the Santa Ana junior college team and won by a lop sided score. Charley Borah was with the U. S. C. men then.

This will not be so easy to repeat this time, Coach Harris believes, with many of the high school tracksters, chiefly those not eligible to participate in the California state meet, also competing.

The second headliner for the 1927 season will occur the following Saturday. This is the third annual Orange County A. A. U. classic, in charge of Coach Harris. The meet this year promises to surpass, in the number of entries and spectacular events, either of the two former meets.

High school and junior college athletes will begin training for the two post-season classics Monday.

The clash with the U. S. C. stars, coming as a preliminary to the A. A. U. meet, will condition the local men for the events of the following week when they will have a chance to win some chest adornments.

LOCAL ANGLERS SET FOR TROUT OPENING

King Trout's winter hibernation ends today with Santa Ana anglers ready to pay him homage in a score of different sectors tomorrow.

The opening of the 1927 fishing season promises to be the most successful in recent years, with all streams and lakes boasting high water due to seasonal rains and snowfall.

Anglers following trails to former favorite haunts will find late snows in the high Sierras blocking highways, according to late reports.

San Bernardino mountain streams and lakes are reported well stocked, together with abundant natural food that may tend to make the fish wary for a time.

In the Can Jacinto mountains of Riverside county, highways, closed since the February rains, are open for first time to traffic.

H. B. Supplies In Action Again Sunday

Joe Rodgers' crack Republic Supply company baseball team, champions of Orange county, draws another tough assignment tomorrow when it goes up against the Standard Upholstering company of Los Angeles at the Huntington Beach park.

Rodgers' men were defeated last Sunday, their second reversal in more than 20 starts.

At least half a dozen other persons who have recently purchased property in the bay district expect to start new homes before the summer season begins, it is reported by Ernest Grill, local realtor, who has closed a large number of real estate transactions on the peninsula during the past few weeks.

Happy Workers Plan Box Supper

WESTMINSTER, April 30.—The women of Westminster and vicinity had a most enjoyable time Wednesday at the all day meeting of the Happy Workers' society. Mrs. R. E. Larter's committee served and $24 was added to the society's bank account from the dinner.

With the president, Mrs. Mabel McCoy, urging the women to thoughts of money making, it was decided to have an old fashioned box supper on the evening of May 20 in the church hall, the entire town to be invited but for the evening's fun. A snappy program which promises to keep everyone moving is being planned by the new program committee, which is composed of Mrs. Clyde Day, Mrs. George B. Clough, Mrs. Fred Baase and Mrs. James R. Morgan, which the president appointed for this year for the society.

An amendment to the by-laws of the society was made Wednesday providing for the auditing of the books at the close of each year. Mrs. Thomas Hosack and Mrs. C. E. McCall, who were especially appointed for the year just closed, reported they had audited the books and found a balance of $90.50. It was decided to dispense with the menus as planned by the executives of the society and allow each committee to choose its own dishes for the meal they are to serve. The women also voted to have the regular social there this year.

At the box social May 20, there will be two booths, one for plants in charge of Mrs. Ruben Edwards, and one for candy.

Rodger brothers, local boat builders and repairmen, own the fishing barge. The Dauntless is on the bar only a few feet from the Muriel, a fishing barge which has been grounded in the harbor entrance for the past two years.

It is expected that the barge can be floated off the bar at high tide.

OIL PROSPECTS SENDS PRICE OF LAND SKYWARD

PLACENTIA, April 30.—Bringing in of the well on the Lemke place, between Carolina and Valencia avenues northeast of Placentia, has stirred up a lot of excitement and interest in the Placentia district.

The Lemke well came in with a roar of gas two weeks ago and has settled down to a production of around 600 barrels of oil and ten million cubic feet of gas in a field where there was no excitement 30 days ago. The Standard had leases there a few years ago, but gave them up and pulled out and no other operators are gathering in the leases. Doherty has entered the field and leases and sales at good figures are being effected every day.

Mrs. Lucana McFadden has leased her 20-acre ranch for a cash bonus of $10,000.

William H. Bates, who had an 11-acre ranch adjoining the Lemke place, refused to lease, but offered to sell and the place was grabbed up for $110,000.

William Berkenstock declined an offer of $60,000 for his 60 acres, but let it go into a lease for $100,000 cash.

H. H. Hale leased this week his 20 acres east of Valencia avenue to the Standard Oil company for a cash bonus of $500 an acre—$10,000.

Louis Jacobson has leased his five acres on Carolina avenue for $500 an acre.

The Associated Oil company's Kemmerer No. 12, which came in Monday at Atwood at 800 barrels, has cleaned out and increased to 1200 barrels.

All leases of course carry the usual provisions for the land owners to share in the oil production.

The Standard Oil company has just about completed its block of leases just south and east of Yorba Linda with about 150 acres under lease, including a lease from Mrs. Yorba Linda Water company for the hill just east of Lake View avenue. Drilling on this block is to start within sixty days from May 1, but will likely start within a few days.

The quick work of the fire department confined the damage mostly to water and smoke damage.

Salesman Faces Disturbance Count

It is alleged that Schmidt, who is a salesman for a drug concern, repeatedly "pestered" the plaintiff to buy his wares. On Wednesday of this week, he entered her home and made himself objectionable by his sales talk, according to Mrs. Orantes.

Bond of $50 was posted by Schmidt to insure his appearance Monday.

The local exhibit occupies a prominent place in the front of the big main tent, where no visitor can fail to see it. The display has been artistically arranged, and consists not only of choice avocados, but of several varieties of semi-tropic fruits which can be grown only in favored sections. The display was arranged through the efforts of the local booster body co-operating with a number of leading growers. Its importance may be judged by the fact that on the second day it was necessary for those in charge to ask for additional space in order that all fruit might be properly shown.

School Grounds At Olive Improved

OLIVE, April 30.—The work of lengthening the school grounds approximately 50 feet and planting shrubbery and improving the grounds in general has begun. The work, estimated to cost $2000 when completed, was authorized some time ago by the school board.

Although all haste is being made from the project by Grover Lewellyn, who has been retained to do the work, it is not expected that it will be fully completed before the opening of the fall semester.

NEWPORT CAFE REPAIRED

As round and round we run;
And the Truth shall ever come uppermost,
And justice shall be done.

PURPOSE OF MUSIC WEEK

Santa Ana embarks Sunday on its celebration of national music week. The preachers and the church choirs will start the ball rolling. Each evening during the week community musical organizations and soloists are to be heard in free public concerts. These concerts will be given at the high school auditorium. A committee, headed by Harry Hanson, has been working for weeks on the details of these concerts. The least the public can do is to show appreciation for their efforts by attending in large numbers.

Music is the universal language and it is also fundamentally the language of democracy, since the poorest are as capable of enjoying and do enjoy it as much as those most heavily endowed with worldly wealth. Indeed, the man in the topmost gallery at the grand opera is frequently a greater lover of music than the box-holder. With the latter it may be an affectation, but with the former it is something akin to worship.

Under the emotional inspiration of music, men have done great deeds, but there is but little evidence that it has ever excited them to evil deeds or mean actions.

In making this assertion, we mean music in the best sense of the term, for we realize that a certain type of jazz and the student efforts of cornet and saxophone players have excited the desire to commit crime if not its actual commission.

There is no better medium for the establishment of harmony and unity of feeling in an organization or community than music. One of the great problems of the day comes under the general term of Americanization. At least a method of approach to its solution may be suggested by the fact that during our music week at least eight nations will be represented at one concert.

Perhaps the greatest accomplishment of music week will be the community spirit it is certain to engender, and which we can always use in this city. Battles have been won by singing troops, and during the world war the sublime courage of our soldiers found its only vocal expression in song.

Music is not an intelligent prepossession, and any effort to classify its devotees is to be discouraged. We know of no better way to do so than through community music weeks.

IT IS A GOOD BEAN YEAR

Within three weeks from today very nearly 45,000 of Orange county's acres will be planted to beans.

There will be some kidney beans, some Henderson bush, quite a heavy acreage of blackeyes and a whole lot of limas. The character of soil determines, as a rule, the kind of bean that is planted. The lima is particular, and wants the best there is available.

Beans have meant a great deal to this county. They have brought in many millions of dollars, contributing to our wealth in no uncertain measure. To be sure, there have been years when the lima and the blackeye proved to be something beside an asset. That was due, in every instance, to lack of rainfall.

This year is not that kind of year. It is just the opposite. It has been years since the bean growers were so well pleased as they are this year with the amount of moisture that there is in the ground.

In general, too, the ground has been put into good shape. The lima bean grower on unirrigated lands strives to form a surface mulch of pulverized earth so that the moisture beneath it cannot readily escape during the dry months that must elapse before the harvest begins.

The prospect this year is for a record yield. To be sure, hot spells may arrive and cut down the production, but that is a chance that must be taken every year. In spite of possible cut-downs, the outlook for the bean growers for a big crop is excellent. The California Lima Bean Growers' association is steady on the job guiding the way to the making of the best possible price returns for the big yield.

There are so many sides now to every political question, and so many shades of opinion in every party, that a simple, old-fashioned partisan patriot doesn't know where he's at.

IN HYSTERICAL SHANGHAI

Reminding the public of the strangely contradictory versions given of the slapping of Alexander Kerensky on the stage of a crowded theater, all coming from eye-witnesses who were "trained observers," the Emporia Gazette remarks:

"If a physical act taking place publicly before an audience in a New York theater watching the single entrance onto the stage of a famous man cannot be reported without varying versions of the same simple set of facts, what happens when a reporter in Shanghai sits down to cable his newspaper word as to what 300 million Chinese people are thinking about Bolshevism and Buddhism and Christianity this morning?"

Or, to carry the parallel a little further—when reporters in Shanghai, in an atmosphere of excitement, politics and militarism, undertake to describe and interpret actual incidents occurring around them from day to day?

If there were foreign warships steaming 600 miles up our rivers, during our Civil War, we'd probably have taken pot shots at them, too.

THE GREATEST CITY

A writer who has been studying an American industrial section sometimes compared to the German Ruhr makes a remarkable prophecy about it.

In another half-century, he says, there will be what he calls "a continuous village" starting at Uniontown, Pa., extending to the west and north in a great crescent through Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit to Pontiac and Flint—a town 400 miles long and 60 miles wide in the thickest part, reaching into three states.

That will be "some village!" It really seems possible, judged by past development and present conditions.

Such growth will be highly profitable for business in that area. It will mean immense profits in real estate. Will it be so good for living conditions? It will not.

Only two prominent candidates for the presidency so far. If we had a government like the old Roman republic, we'd simply elect them both and let them share the job.

Many Quitting Farms

San Francisco Chronicle
According to the United States Census Bureau, the farm population of this country decreased by 449,000 persons during 1926. The growing preponderance of the cities over the country districts has been the subject of increasing concern to students of social and economic matters. Government commissions have been appointed to study the causes and suggest a remedy. Modern mechanical conveniences, like the motor car and the radio, have been hailed as influences to check the flow of population from the farms. But still it keeps up.

In every year there is a relative loss to the rural districts. But a fact that is often overlooked is that the movement from the farms is now so strong that the rural population is decreasing not only relatively to the city population but that the number of persons living on farms has been for several years actually growing smaller. The loss last year was greater than in any previous year, with the exception of 1920, when deflation brought conditions approaching a panic in many farming sections.

Here, then, is a force which eventually will solve the question of farm relief if it is not solved otherwise. If the population keeps running away from the farms and piling up in the cities the time will come when the demand for food will be greater than the supply. Then the farmer will have his day. At the rate at which the population is flowing from the farms to towns that day may not be distant.

While this is a pleasing prospect for those who stay in farming, it is ominous to the Nation at large. The most secure social order is that based on a prosperous and contented farming population. After all the discussion of the causes of the decline of Roman civilization, Ferrero, one of the most analytical of historians, says it was because of the movement of the population from the farms to the cities. "Rome," he said, "found herself without soldiers for her armies or bread for her people."

How to make farming profitable enough in America to keep a reserve of productiveness above the immediate needs of the Nation is a problem deserving the patriotic concern of the best minds in economics and government.

Wider Roads Needed

Riverside Enterprise
The announced intention of the State Highway Commission to widen the road between Riverside and Ontario to a full hundred feet is good news. The highways are kept in good condition so far as their roadbeds are concerned. But many of them are so narrow as to be inadequate to the demands of modern traffic. Constructed at a time when traffic was supposed to have reached its high point, the state highway system is largely out of date. For an example, the road north from Bakersfield to San Francisco for long stretches is so narrow and so crowded that traveling on it is an ordeal. A driver expects to sideswipe a car almost any minute.

With a cent added to the state gasoline tax a large amount of new revenue will be available for highway funds. One cent is to go to the counties, another to the state for upkeep while the third penny is to be used for new construction. With a vast revenue pouring into its coffers from the pockets of motorists, taxpayers are going to expect results from the highway commission.

The statement regarding the widening of the Riverside-Ontario road indicates this hope will not be groundless. And while speaking of the Ontario road, why is it that the Wineville Union Pacific crossing was not repaved when the rest of the highway was improved last year? Was this work omitted because of plans for an overhead crossing? It is to be hoped that this is the reason.

As a Proxy for His Son

Fresno Republican
The "Tin Hat," which is the publication of Selma Post of the American Legion, tells of a very "human interest" enterprise of the World War Veterans of that part of Fresno county.

All the veterans are interested in the coming convention of the American Legion at Paris. But none of them is planning to attend. They would like to go. But they can't afford it. And the post, much as it would like to have a representative go to Paris, has felt that it has better uses for its money.

But there is a father, in Selma, who is going to France this year, if he can.

G. B. Finney lost a son in the World War. The boy is buried in a military cemetery on French soil. The father is going to visit it if he can.

Selma Post of the American Legion is going to see that the father of Edward Chester Finney has a chance to go to France to see his boy's grave. Incidentally, he will be the delegate of Selma Post to the American Legion convention.

CASES OF WHOOPING COUGH MUST BE PUT UNDER QUARANTINE

From two to ten days after a child has come into contact with a person or animal carrying the germs of whooping cough, he may be passing through a period when he himself is beginning to be infected with this disease.

After this incubation period has passed, it is considered safe for the child to return to school or to play with other children, if it has not developed symptoms of the disease.

For a period of seven to fourteen days before the characteristic whoop develops the child is passing through what is known as a catarrhal stage. At this time the upper bronchial tubes and the nose and throat are irritated and secrete mucus. There may be severe paroxysms of coughing, at first dry. These coughs occur in series or in showers at intervals.

After the characteristic whoop appears the person continues to be able to transmit the infection for at least three weeks, and perhaps much longer. It is perhaps well to consider the person as capable of spreading the infection as long as the whoop continues, and for two weeks after it ends. During such a time he should be kept away from other children and certainly kept away from school and public places.

Physicians are convinced that it is possible to prevent the disease in children who have not had it by injecting them with a vaccine made from the bacteria associated with whooping cough. While this vaccine is not effective in all cases, the evidence seems to be good that it frequently may be of service in preventing the child from catching the disease.

As with other infectious diseases, all discharges from the nose and throat should be disinfected as well as articles contaminated by these discharges. When the disease has passed, the room should be thoroughly cleaned and aired. Children must well be instructed not to associate with other children who are constantly coughing or who seem to be suffering from throat irritations.

To Celebrate Tree-Planting

There will be an interesting celebration in Nebraska in June. It will be the first of its kind in this country. It will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first planting of trees on the federal forest reserves. A forest of 10,000 acres, planted on land regarded as barren and worthless for agricultural purposes, now shows a stand of trees that in a few years more will have substantial commercial value, and already has yielded, by way of thinning processes, fence posts and firewood in considerable quantity. The planting was done on the Nebraska national forest.

Forestry conservation was one of the hobbies of President Roosevelt, a hobby that became a great national policy. It was in the Roosevelt administration that the forestry system, in all that it has meant and still means, was established. When it was first proposed that experiments be made in planting new forests from the seed, to replace in some measure the rapid depletion of native forests, surveys were made in Nebraska for the purpose. The land was set apart by a Roosevelt proclamation, issued in 1902. In the same year the nursery was established and the seeds planted. In the spring of 1903 the seedlings were set, 40,000 of yellow pine and 70,000 of jack pine, which have grown satisfactorily and have provided successive inter-growth through their own seeding.

Since the time the planting of forest trees has progressed, although not to the extent contemplated by the forest service in the Roosevelt days, nor in keeping with the success of the demonstrations made. The federal government has planted 212,000 acres, the states 114,000 acres, various industrial and other organizations and municipalities 122,000 acres. But by far the greater influence has been on planting by individuals, principally farmers. While accurate figures on private planting are not available, the government estimates that, since 1902, 1,179,000 acres of private lands have been set in forest trees.

The federal government co-operates with the farmers who seek thus to utilize such of their land as is best adapted to tree growing. The planting involves only negligible cost. These timber tracts soon furnish considerable fuel from the trimmings. Later they furnish posts for the thinning. Finally, after thirty-five or forty years, they provide timber of mill size. At any time after they are planted they give the land an added value.

Worth While Verse

SPRING DAYS

Spring is a lazy time.
I love to take
An old gray horse and wander in the hills
Up rocky trails an auto cannot make,
Along a happy brook whose clamor fills
The narrow canyon where the wild flowers hide
That will not bloom a dusty road beside.
They are so shy I never pick a one,
But leave them for the robins and the sun.

One cannot know when living in the town
How busy is the world of outdoor things
After the rains, what meadows seeded down
To grass and weeds, or flutter of bird wings
Building of precious nests among the trees,
What eucalyptus blossoms for the bees,
And glossy coats for winter's heavy fur,
And spider's new spun web of gossamer.

They never notice me, deer, quail or fly
Unless I bar their way, and then they move
Reluctantly aside, an alien I
In this warm canyon land of spring and love,
Where sunlight makes a glory of the boughs
Of maple trees and butterflies carouse.
Homeward I come at night with empty hands,
A voyager from foreign shores and lands.

ON THE SIDE LINES

Which May or May Not Be in Accord With the Views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

A TALE OF TWO CITIES—San

Francisco is raising $200,000, with an additional $50,000, should it be needed, to be spent in defraying the expense of holding the next national convention of the Republican party. San Francisco says in effect: "Give us the convention and we will furnish the money."

The cash is to be raised—indeed, it is already pledged—by public subscription. That's the San Francisco way.

Los Angeles would like very much to be the place chosen for the next Olympic games, and, it is estimated, would have to spend the sum of approximately a million dollars in order to secure them and make a success of the meet.

Los Angeles is willing, indeed, anxious, to spend the money, and is going to ask the entire state of California to vote bonds in order to secure it.

And that's the Los Angeles way.

HOW ABOUT IT?—Dr. Nicholas

Murray Butler, and Arthur Brisbane agree in the opinion that, since the Volstead act has not been very effectively enforced during the eight years since its passage, it is fair to assume that it cannot be enforced at all, and should, therefore, be repealed.

Well, the code known as the Ten Commandments has been given a trial for a considerably longer period than eight years. Every one knows that the laws therein contained are good laws, and that the world would be better for their strict and complete enforcement. But the indisputable fact that they are not obeyed and not enforced is never suggested as cause for their repeal.

ROYAL CHICKEN RAISERS—

The world as a whole does not seem to have much use for kings nowadays, and it may be that the heirs apparent to the throne of both Great Britain and Spain are wise in their generation in preparing to take up useful and gainful employment.

Both have signified their intention of making exhibits at the world's poultry congress which is to be held at Ottawa, Canada, July 27 to August 4th. The Prince of Wales will exhibit some birds from his farm in Cornwall, England, and the Prince of the Asturias, heir to the Spanish throne, is to enter some fowls.

SINCLAIR LEWIS—SCOFFER—

Sinclair Lewis has written another book. His previous books—Main Street and Babbalanza—were said to be among the "best sellers" of their time, although why this should be true, or even approximately true, this deponent finds himself entirely unable to state.

But in Mr. Lewis' latest effort, "Elmer Gantry," he has outdone even any of his previous efforts to vilify and malign that which the good citizen should respect if he can do no more. The book is an outrageous and certainly uncalled for attack on the clergy of the Protestant church, notably the Baptist and Methodist.

It is just such a book as Sinclair Lewis might be expected to write, and just such a book as will interest those, if any there be, who like that kind of a book.

BAS THE CRIME WAVE!

Evidently the Chamber of Commerce of Kernan, Fresno county, is determined that the "crime wave" shall not be permitted to engulf Kernan.

To that end the Chamber of Commerce is arranging to equip the nightwatchman with a sawed-off shotgun, to supplement the side arms he now carries.

It is explained that the use of a sawed-off shotgun is more effective in case the officer is called upon to shoot, as the shot scatters and finds its mark, where poor aim with a revolver might mean an escape for a marauder. The nightwatchman also has a fierce dog that makes the rounds with him.

Really it would seem that the Kernan Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with the nightwatchman, has done about all that could be done to the end that crime shall not be permitted to wave in Kernan.

UNDER WHICH CROSS?—Two organizations are collecting contributions of money from the public of Los Angeles.

The Red Cross is asking for money for the very excellent work of helping the distressed conditions brought about by floods in the Mississippi valley.

The other organization is asking for money to be expended in the attempt to over-ride and annul the wish of the voters of California in reference to reapportionment, as expressed at the polls last November, and, later, enacted into law by the state legislature.

You can contribute to either organization—the Red Cross or the Double Cross.

THAT PAGEANT BUSINESS—

Chas. F. Lumis, well known authority on all matters concerning the early history of California, is very much inclined to question the wisdom of the "Ramona Pageant" held annually at Hemet.

Well, perhaps it is crowding the mourners just a little bit, this matter of immortalizing the memory of a personage who lived only in fiction, and who never, as a matter of fact, lived in Camulos, married at San Diego, or ended her days at Hemet—except in Helen Hunt Jackson's book.

As well have an annual "Mrs. Jellyby" pageant, or, better still, a "Wilkins Macawber" pageant. Mr. Macawber was, even and always, "waiting for something to turn up," and so many people are doing that nowadays that a Macawber pageant ought to be a great success.

SHE COULD AFFORD IT—Today's best story of a Hutchinson, Kansas, man who received a letter from a Kansas City firm, which had sold him wedding announcements a dozen years before, calling his attention to the important date and suggesting the store has a fine array of appropriate gifts for the wife.

"I am forwarding your letter to the lady in question," he replied in a letter to the firm. "She is better able to buy the trinkets from the alimony I am paying her than I am."

Marbles

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

THE marble season! Sure sign of Spring! Marble warriors returning muddy and victorious, or muddy and sheepishly requesting more marbles, but always muddy. Marbles are contagious, too. I and myself smiled at each other as we overheard one business man remark to another, "Well, they don't seem to play the real game. Now we used to play—," and business was forgotten!

JIMMIE MCCHEEPS

Played marbles for keeps,

And he'd play any boy who would come.

He'd won a whole bag

So he felt he could brag

That of course he could beat anyone.

(It was always the same;

He'd insist on a game

No matter who happened to come.

At a wee little fellow

He'd yell, "Aw, you're yellow!"

So he'd just have to play then, or run.

He'd play on the walk

In a circle of chalk,

He'd play in the mud, or the street.

If a boy wouldn't play

Jim would swagger and say,

"Aw, you know very well I could beat!"

One night time he dreamed

And Oh, how he screamed

When he met an enormous green worm

Which, cried, "Jim McCheeps,

'I play marbles for keeps!'

And it made Jimmie holler and squirm.

It had marbles for eyes,

Then, to Jimmie's surprise,

It changed to a hideous red man

Who roared, "My young fellow,

If you won't play you're yellow,

And it's taking your agates I am!"
